ROBERT D. TOWNE says religion is handicapped by "lack of good news." There are no more firm assurances, such as the one given to Peter and Andrew, "Follow Me and I will make you fishers of men." There are no definite assertions about hell. If you are wicked, and heaven if you behave. Clergymen split hairs; each one believes part and denies part. The simple mind wants to believe everything.

PERHAPS a few miracles would help to revive faith and fill the churches. Suppose the Rev. Dr. Straton should say: "I warn you dissenting clergymen that you are all bound for perdition, and to prove it I shall now change Dr. Jones into a stick of candy." Would not that convert all, if Dr. Jones did stiffen up and slowly turn into striped peppermint?

You'd think so, but the human heart is hard. You remember the Arabian philosopher who said to the holy man: "You may say to me, 'Twice two are five, and to prove it, I'll turn this walking stick into a live serpent,' but even if you change your stick into a serpent, I'll still say that is interesting, but twice two are not five."

CHICAGO is to have the champion hotel, for bigness, at least 2,268 rooms; cost, including real estate and furniture, $40,000,000. Such will be the new Palmer House.

It seems only yesterday when the old Palmer House was new, George M. Pullman and John W. Doane went to see a fire started in one of the rooms, to prove fire resistance. And everybody admired the intellectual colored man who took your hat and coat, did the same for 500 others, never gave out checks, but gave back the right things to each man. He could remember hundreds never seen before, and what belonged to them.

EUROPE, rudely ridiculing and perhaps secretly envying American "bigness," will read these figures with amazement. You could change your room every day for six years in that hotel, never occupying the same room twice. The specifications include four miles of corridors, and three and a half acres of window glass.

And even that will seem small one day, when the world becomes overcrowded, and we go to the upper stories of hotels by helicopter, eating nitrogen taken from the air around the top floor.

SOME BRITISHERS are intelligent, which protects them and the others. James Brown, plain coal miner, who lived in a two-room Scottish cottage, is appointed Lord High Commissioner of the General Assembly of the

WOMAN SWINDLER CAUGHT

BAD CHECKS CAUSE OF ARREST

Weymouth Mother Charged With Larceny of Thousands From Stores

Mrs. Alethia W. Healy, attractive thirty-five-year-old mother of No. 119 Summer street, Weymouth, was arrested today in a Boston department store, charged with larceny of thousands of dollars by means of worthless checks.

The capture came after four years of fruitless endeavor on the part of the police and the Store Mutual Protective Association to trap the woman passing small checks on every department and specialty store in town.

Today the entire force of the detective bureau, the stores' association, the personnel of department and specialty stores and every shop of the type that the woman had been victimizing co-operated in an attempt to effect a capture.

OF PROMINENT FAMILY.

Mrs. Healy, who is of a prominent Newburyport family, walked into the trap with a small check, which she sewed at a department store to be cashed.

The check was O. K'd and Police Inspector Flaherty, who was stationed in the store, was called. Replaced the woman under arrest. Vehemently she denied that she was the woman wanted.

Not until she was confronted with nearly 200 bad checks cashed during four years di dshe break down, weep and confess that she was the woman who had rushed them under many names. Then she demanded that she be allowed to go home.

The police questioned her, how

BEAT, ROB BROOKLINE VICTIM

Bandits Knock Garage Man Senseless, but Miss Big Roll in His Socks

Six holdup men followed Manager John Daley from the Brookline Avenue Garage early today and beat him into unconsciousness in the Parkway at River road, Brookline.

The highwaymen got only Daley's watch and a few dollars he carried in his pockets. They missed a large amount of money he had in his stockings.

A short time after the hold-up, Timothy McManus of Vernon street, Roxbury, was arrested in Roxbury for drunkenness. Blood stains were on his coat.

In the belief that he might be connected with the holdup, the Roxbury police notified Police Chief Rutherford of Brookline. A belt, said to match McManus' coat, was found near the scene of the hold-up.

McManus was arraigned in Roxbury court and released on the drunkenness charge. He was immediately re-arrested by Chief Rutherford and charged with assault and battery with intent to rob Daley.

The garage manager is at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, still unconscious. So far, the physicians have not determined the extent of his injuries.

A telephone call to Brookline police headquarters shortly before daybreak, that a man had been held up in the parkway, sent Sergeant Knowles and Patrolmen Lally and Russell rector to the place in the police automobile.

They found Daley bleeding from head wounds.

He was rushed to the hospital and on the way revived long enough to say that three men, evidently knowing that he was carrying home a large sum of money from the garage, followed and attacked him. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness again.

THREE MEN ARE FOUND SLAIN

Bodies of Two Victims Discovered in Rivers; Mystery Surrounds All Cases

Three murder mysteries, in two of which the victims are unidentified men, have developed in Massachusetts within the past twelve hours. All three cases have completely baffled the police, although several promising clews have been uncovered.

The victim in the third case was Bruce Bright, 22, of No. 34 Green street, Beverly, who has been missing since New Year's night.

At Lowell, the body of a man was found in a sitting posture in an alley-way in the rear of a large business block. There was a deep cut over the man's left temple, the wound having been inflicted several days ago. The man's pockets were rifled.

At Danvers, the body of young Bright, the front of the head crushed in, apparently by a blow from some blunt weapon, was pulled from the waters of the Crane River. The body had been in the water several weeks. The pockets of the victim's clothes were empty.

At Lawrence, the body of a man, at first helped to be Lowell woodsman, was taken from the Merrimac river. Later, the police discovered that the identification tags found in the clothing of the man, believed to be a friend, with whom he started for the Vermont woods, two weeks ago. The friend has vanished.

NEW ENGLAND AROUSED OVER CONGRESS' BLOW AT SHOE INDUSTRY

JAIL LABOR ON SHOES ASSAILED

Manufacturers and Labor Leaders Seek to Have Recent Law Modified

cent of the so-called general deficiency bill which converts the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, into a convict shoe factory to turn out all shoes to be used by the army, navy and marines and on the Indian reservations.

A rising tide of indignation is sweeping New England. The new law is regarded as a blow at the shoe industry. It is interpreted as making the Government an unfair competitor.

It is regarded dangerous in that it flings wide the door for convict manufacture not only of shoes, but of uniforms, weapons and no end of commodities.

LABOR JOINS CAPITAL.

Although disappointed by the passage of the law in the face of a bitter fight, the New England Shoe and Leather Association—the first organization in the country to take up the issue—is far from discouraged.

The movement was started as an attack to induce Congress to adopt amended or additional legislation which will authorize diversified production at Leavenworth and other prisons.

The shoe forces of the country and business interests in sympathy, are called upon to unite in efforts to bring about this relief.

GROUNDS OF BRIEF.

A brief filed with Congress by the New England shoe manufacturers opposes the Leavenworth prison plan on the following ten grounds:

1—It is a fundamental departure from the elementary purposes of popular government.

2—It is intended to, and will enlarge the economic functions of government at the expense of its political purposes and to make it a business competitor with its own citizens, under conditions of unfair competition.

3—It is repugnant to the vital cooperation, which, in the opinion of the military establishment, should be maintained between manufacturers and the whole plan of expanded production in time of war.

4—It is intended, and will operate to increase the number of public wage-earners (civilian officers and employes at the penitentiary and in Washington) at a continually increasing and unprecedented charge upon the treasury.

5—It undertakes to compel the soldiers, the marines, the sailors and the Indians to wear convict-made shoes, regardless of quality, appearance or comfort of the finished product.

6—It transfers the manufacture of shoes from the army and navy departments, who have trained corps of assistants to the Department of Justice, without trained assistants, which is in the nature of an experiment and is not desirable, possible or practical.

7—It designates to the Attorney-General powers broad and foreign to the Department of Justice, creating additional building, purchasing, operating and selling agencies, thus placing an unnecessary burden upon the taxpayer, which is commercially and economically unsound.

8—It interferes with the natural process of industry.

9—It interferes with the production of free labor and free labor say that when convict-made shoes are placed in competition with the product of free labor, the market will become disorganized.

ASSAILED IN EDITORIAL

An editorial published by the Shoe and Leather Reporter and advances the following technical objection:

"The Army shoes call for expert workmanship. They are made by the welt system. Convict labor should not be supplied in this technical task which calls for experienced craftsmanship."

"The present clothing ordinance great love and affection for the citizen soldiers whose votes will control in the next election, but little or no regard for the regular soldiers of Uncle Sam who can't vote. Why should not be supplied the best shoes for all our national legislators care.

"It is not alone that shoe manufacturers employing union labor are opposed to this vicious order, but the general public will no doubt with favor upon this development when attention is called to the matter. It is right and proper for convict-made shoes to be worn by convicts, but there are objections to convict shoes on our soldiers' feet."

Frank Rump, secretary of the Brockton Shoe Manufacturers' Association, said today the shoe manufacturers of that city are unanimously opposed to the plan of the government to engage in making shoes for the army and Indian Reservation at Leavenworth Prison.

Mr. Rump said he voiced the opinion of John F. Kent, president of the Manufacturers' Association, who is away at present. Many factories now making army and navy shoes, he said, would be forced to turn to the making of domestic shoes, forcing many out of work, should the proposed convict-labor plan materialize.

James O'Connell, secretary of the Saint Anne Shoe Company, composed of delegates from each local, said the council is solidly against the establishment of a shoe factory at Leavenworth.

VIEWS IN LYNN

William H. Day, secretary to the Lynn Chamber of Commerce, said: "It is the most short-sighted policy on the part of the government. They should repeal the law the first day when Uncle Sam's feet need shoes enough factories to supply the army and navy. At that time they found it necessary to call upon the manufacturers to make shoes for them at a big expense to the shoe men who had to rescue all their machinery to meet the wants of the government. Many of those shoes were made by the New England manufacturers for our boys.

"If the law is to stand it will mean shoes of poor quality will be made by the Prison Laborers and it will also mean that the manufacturers will have to go junk all of the expensive machinery.

"In the event of another war the government would have to call on the shoe men to cooperate as the Leavenworth laborers would not be able to fill the demands.

"Turn into the shoe interests of New England and the country in condemning this plan."

WEEKS TO FACE SENATE PROBE NEXT WEEK

War Head to Be Quizzed on Aircraft Frauds; Daugherty Raps Pepper

Washington, April 5.—The Daugherty Investigating Committee was in recess today after another week of crocheting inquiry.

Although darting from "deal" to deal," the committee was concerned chiefly with war contracts, and is expected next week to hear Secretary Weeks with reference to aircraft fraud cases.

It is planned, however, to examine other witnesses on this matter before questioning the Secretary, and meanwhile the committee will have available for study documents relating to some of the cases placed at its disposal for consideration in executive session.

E. L. Doheny, lessee of Elk Hills naval oil reserve, who was subpoenaed to appear next week, has been excused indefinitely.

Doheny had notified the committee that pressing business in Los Angeles would make it impossible for him to appear for some time.

TO PROBE BANKBOOKS.

Senator Wheeler, Montana, Democrat, prosecutor of the inquiry, and Senator Moses of New Hampshire, have been authorized to conduct the investigation at Washington Court House, Ohio, of the accounts of the defunct National Bank, of which M. S. Daugherty, brother of the former Attorney-General, is president.

Contempt proceedings against the Ohio banker are under consideration because he has refused to permit examination of the books with regards to the extent desired by the committee and recently failed to answer when called under a subpoena, subsequently questioning the legal right of the investigators to require his presence.

ASSAILS PEPPER.

Ex-Attorney-General Harry M. M. Daugherty denounced Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania before the Republican State Committee of Maine. He likened Pepper's speech to Dr. Burchard's phrase "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" address which is popularly believed to have defeated James G. Blaine in 1884.

Daugherty declared that a few more "keynote" speeches of the kind made by Pepper would sound the death knell of the Republican party. He bitterly scored Senator Pepper for placing responsibility for the Senate inquiry upon the late President Harding.

He declared that the reason Senator Pepper had denounced the inquiry was because he had opposed his appointment as solicitor-general of the Department of Justice.

Daugherty declared the Senator had tried to force the United States into the League of Nations through the "back door."

3 FIREMEN HURT

Avery and Thomas Parks, attached to Cambridge fire headquarters, were overcome by falling flames from ladders when they felt themselves growing weaker.

They slid down the ladders and collapsed on reaching the ground. All three were taken to the Cambridge City Hospital, where they were under treatment for several hours.

Five alarms were sounded in Cambridge for the spectacular fire, and engines Nos. 6 and 33 were sent from Boston.

Flames shooting through the roof of the burning ice cream making plant illuminated the sky for miles around and brought thousands of persons to the scene.

Hundreds of gallons of ammonia were stored in the basement of the plant, and soon sizzling sounds mingled the flames from the ammonia.

Hazel Coleman, Julia Moore and Catherine Conlin were thrown by the explosion out to the factory ready for work this morning, only to find no work to do.

The Ellis factory is a three-story brick structure, fronting on Massachusetts avenue. The fire started in some unknown manner on the third floor. Between 200 and 300 persons are employed by the Hood company, but nobody was in the building except a watchman.

The fire was discovered by Robert O'Neill, proprietor of the University Lunch, while filling station gasoline sets avenue. Flames were shooting from the third floor windows.

Chief Engineer Dalrymple and Deputy Chiefs Lanchroom and the O'Brien & Morrison Tire Shop on the ground floor of the building were damaged by smoke and water.

After an hour of work firemen said the fire was under control. They had sent it inside the Hood building.

LAWRENCE WILL FIGHT LOST BY MRS. PEPPER

Denying Sister's Petition, the Judge Rules Real Estate Man Was Not Unduly Influenced

Judge Dolan in Suffolk Probate Court today denied the petition of Mrs. Emma K. Pepper of Chelsea to break the will of her brother, the late Rufus E. Lawrence, real estate operator.

Lawrence's fortune of $500,000 was bequeathed to various charitable institutions.

Mrs. Pepper alleged that the will was executed under the influence of Mrs. Daisy Emily Skillings, a former housekeeper for Lawrence. Her brother, she declared, was also of unsound mind in April, 1922, the time the will was executed.

A hypothetical question was permitted to be asked of Dr. Frank Sullivan, psychiatrist, of No. 620 Beacon street, as to the condition of a man who had been suffering from chronic heart trouble and tuberculosis and who had eccentric habits. Dr. Sullivan declared that such a person's mental condition might be modified by his ill health.

Judge Dolan ruled that Lawrence was in possession of his mental faculties at the time of the execution of the will and that there was no evidence to sustain the charge of undue influence.

Church of Scotland, by the Labor government. That high honor was previously held by the Duke of Atholl and others of high rank.

SNOBS AND FOOLS had planned to boycott the "common workman" socially, when he should make his official appearance. But the Duke of Atholl invites James Brown to be his guest. The Duchess of Atholl has offered to teach Mrs. Brown the ropes, and the Marchioness of Aiisa will be her lady in waiting. That is how the British peerage holds on.

THE BRITISH government, to increase the number of flying men, "will back young men's flying clubs near big cities."

When young men start a club, the government will lend them "two-seater" flying machines, and send men to teach them flying.

OUR GOVERNMENT might take the hint. Sending young men to training camps is a good idea. But in future wars, one man taught to fly, drop bombs, and work a machine gun from the air, would be worth 1,000 young men taught to parade, present arms, etc; 10,000 first-class fliers, with a machine for each, would make this nation absolutely safe against invasion. Will the government ever grasp that fact, and act on it?

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and some others, say that it would be a mistake to have one single organization of flying fliers. There should be, he thinks, a flying department for the army and another for the navy.

THAT WOULD give two sets of secretaries something to play with, and cost the people a double "overhead." But it is not common sense.

This country should have one great flying army, by 100 per cent greater than any other on earth. Every man in that force should be taught air fighting and be well paid. In peace they would work for the mails. In war, under one chief commander, they would fight for the nation. Backed up by submarines, they would make this country absolutely safe from attack.

CHAYANOFF, Russian Minister of Agriculture, makes some predictions, not too pleasant for American farmers. Being a Bolshevist, he will admit, does not make it impossible for a man to understand agriculture.

Chayanoff says that Russia will soon take America's place in the grain market of the world, and may soon be exporting fodder and other farm products to this country. He calls American farmers "mere hired men of the capitalists." That is not complimentary, but you cannot deny that the real job assigned farmers is paying dividends to railroads, fertiliser concerns and makers of agricultural machinery. After he has satisfied them, there is little left.

Walter L. Collins, Father of Walks, Has Birthday

When he graduated from Harvard, however, he forgot athletics and after teaching in night school for a time he studied law and was admitted to the bar. He was three times elected to the City Council and served two terms as its president.

Monday is his birthday. Send a card or letter of congratulation to his office at No. 18 Tremont street, Boston.

ACCUSE BAKER

Inspectors Clarahan and Saffel, who were sent to Boston to conduct an investigation of these unlawful sales, which their report says have been going on, from time to time, since 1921 or earlier, the postmaster general said.

The postmaster-general was careful to say that no charges of corruption nor criminal intent is charged against Baker and others in the Boston postoffice as a result of these transactions. He said the government received equally as high a price for the articles as would have been received had they been sold at public auction.

Patrick J. Mullory, assistant superintendent of mails, has been in charge of sales of unclaimed postal matter in Boston, according to the report.

James Buckley, a clerk in the inquiry section of the Boston office, is another mentioned in the report as having bought some of the unclaimed articles. Golf bags, suit cases, cloth and other articles are mentioned as having been unlawfully sold.

The Postmaster-General said he had not read the complete report, and would withhold comment until he had done so. Inspectors Clarahan and Saffell recommended that the report be considered in connection with the proposed reapportionment of Baker as postmaster here.

COOLIDGE ASKS AID FOR WHEAT GROWERS

Urges Credit Corporation to Extend Needed Loans to Midwest Farmers

Washington, April 5.—President Coolidge today asked the recently organized Agricultural Credit Corporation to undertake, in co-operation with the War Finance Corporation, the extension of credit to North western wheat growers for farm diversification.

The President declared such a step should be taken because of the defeat of the Norbeck-Burtness bill providing for loans to wheat farmers to enable them to purchase livestock and poultry, and added that he knew of "no more effective service that could be rendered to the agricultural interests of the central Northwest."

The President's letter said:

"At the conference held in Washington in February in connection with the agricultural solution in the Northwest one of the important questions considered was the movement toward diversified farming in areas of the Northwest which have in the past been devoted mainly to wheat growing.

"In my address to the conference I referred to the Norbeck-Burtness bill, then pending in Congress, which appropriated a fund to be used by the Department of Agriculture in making loans to wheat farmers to enable them to purchase livestock and poultry, and thus equip their farms for dairying and general farming.

"I suggested that such a fund could be administered in a sound and effective manner, if coupled with a general program of refunding and extension of overdue indebtedness. The Norbeck-Burtness bill, however, has failed of passage in the Senate and it is thus apparent that relief along these lines cannot be expected.

ver, listening with amazement to the artful manner in which she had worked.

Love for pretty clothes, a husband ill, forced to remain home on account of nervous breakdowns, the necessity for clothing her eighteen-year-old daughter and another child, fourteen, in pretty and becoming garments she declared, led her to begin the passing of bad checks in 1926.

SEVEN ARE BONDED.

Since that time, despite the fact that detectives, police inspectors, credit managers, cashiers, salesmen and clerks have been busy here and there and clerks throughout the city, were appear, she has cashed more than 200 checks, none of the stores ever questioning her.

Always the "breaks" of luck were with her. Time after time, with a police inspector carrying a stylish shop for her to appear, she entered a shop next door, succeeded in having a check cashed and slipped out again.

Her method was a novel one, according to the police, after she had told her story. She entered a store, purchased goods and paid for them legitimately, chatting with the salesman, and during the conversation inserted in the hour when he usually went out to lunch.

On another day she would return when he was out and cash a check for him. On hearing that he was out she would express disappointment, stating that he had said he could cash a check for her. In nearly every case the store cashed the check on this statement.

CORLISS PALMER NAMED IN ALIENATION SUIT FOR $200,000

AUTHOR'S WIFE ASKS BALM

Mrs. Eleanor Brewster Claims Husband Showered Movie Actress With Gifts

New York, April 5 (I.N.S.).—Mrs. Eleanor Brewster, wife of Eugene V. Brewster, wealthy Brooklyn publisher and author, today filed suit against Miss Corliss Palmer, motion picture actress, for $200,000 damage for alleged alienation of Brewster's affections.

Reciting that she and Brewster were married at Stamford, Conn., December 29, 1916, and that they have one child, Virgil, who is in her custody, Mrs. Brewster says she and her husband were happy together until December, 1920. She further states that she aided him in his business enterprises, which prospered, and that Brewster is now a very wealthy man.

"On or about October, 1920," recites Mrs. Brewster, "but as to the precise date or dates the plaintiff does not know, the defendant (Miss Palmer) conceived and has at all times since entertained a design of obtaining for herself the said Brewster's financial support, affection and consort, and of depriving the plaintiff and the said child thereof."

The complaint cites the establishing by Brewster of a luxurious home at Morristown, N. J., for Miss Palmer and tells of great gifts bestowed upon the girl.

Attached to the complaint is an affidavit by William Willen, who says he and his wife were employed by Brewster at Rosiyn, and that everything went smoothly until about a month later, when Miss Palmer appeared on the scene.

Morristown, N. J., April 5.—"Corliss will fight this suit to the last ditch," was the statement issued here by Eugene V. Brewster, wealthy motion picture magazine publisher, when informed today that he had filed suit against Miss Corliss Palmer. He added Miss Palmer had engaged counsel, and in his Brewster opinion, Mrs. Brewster might recover a verdict awarding her six cents.

Miss Palmer was at the Brewster home but had nothing to add to Brewsters' statement, she said.

Miss Corliss Palmer of the movies has been sued by Mrs. Eleanor Brewster, wife of Eugene V. Brewster, Brooklyn publisher and author, in $200,000, for alienation of affections. NEW HAVEN'S LAND SALES BIG IN 8 YEARS

Real estate totaling $9,500,000 has been sold by the New Haven railroad in eight and a half years, strengthening the road's financial position and relieving it of considerable tax burden, it was revealed today. The land, not required for operating purposes, included valuable parcels in the Park square district.

In 1922 alone, the road negotiated 114 sales of property owned by it or its leased lines, with an aggregate total of $8,081,949. Fourteen of those sales, Massachusetts realized, from which nearly two and a half millions was realized.

Richard Hathaway McCann of No. 6 Arlington street, Cambridge, student at Harvard Law School, was taken from his bed at his home by Patrolman Pick of Arlington and locked up on a charge of operating an automobile without a license or registration, and for operating an automobile which had only one front light.

The officer said he stopped McCann in Arlington and asked for his license and registration. He said McCann claimed he had left it at home, but would get it and return. When he failed to do so his arrest was ordered. In East Cambridge Court today McCann's case was continued until April 27.

FULLER SPREADS WARNING TO POLITICIANS

Letters Caution Those Who Do Not Intend to Vote for Him

Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller addressed letters to members of city and town Republican councils and committees throughout the State, seeking support for his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor.

Politicians profess to see, in the letter of Mr. Fuller, a veiled warning to those who do not support his candidacy.

"It is a satisfaction to know who one's friends are before election, as apparently, judging from past experiences almost everyone aspires to be a friend afterward," is the clause in the Fuller letter which the politicians consider significant.

Apparently Mr. Fuller is pleased with the outlook, and is entirely sanguine as to the results, both at the primary and the general election.

"While I haven't the slightest doubt of my nomination and election," the letter reads, "yet, at the same time, I wish to make sure double sure—etc."

ACCUSE UNION MEN OF HIRING PUGILIST

Police Say Officials Employed Him to Slug Strike-Breakers

An alleged plot by officials of a garment workers' union to have "slugged" and kept away from work by a professional prize fighter resulted today in the arrest of Fred Monnossin, Israel Lewin, Frank Cozozo and Charles Shepard on a conspiracy charge.

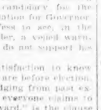
Monnossin and Lewin pose said by the police to be officials of a garment workers' union. Cozozo is alleged to have been the gobetween in negotiations with Shepard, a prize fighter, who is alleged to have been hired to do the "slugging."

The arrests were made by Special Officers Hartigan and Mullen of the Lagrange street station on information from the police department. Depositions were secured from Cozozo. Later, when the four were arraigned before Judge Duff in Municipal Court, the case was continued to April 11. Each was held in $200.

According to the police information, Monnossin and Lewin directed Cozozo to hire Shepard at a flat rate of $50 for each strikebreaker "slugged" and $15 for each one prevented not to go to work. The garment workers' union has been engaged in strikebreakers of the Mathews Kodesker Company.

To direct suspicion from themselves, according to the police, Monnossin and Lewin ordered that the depositions be the recipients of one punch each by Shepard.

NEW MOVE HOLDS UP TRIAL OF McNAMEE



J. H. H. McNamee

The trial of J. H. H. McNamee, former president of the Prudential Trust Company, on the charge of conspiracy to steal funds of the trust company, scheduled for Monday, was held up today, when Attorney Elisha Greenwood, counsel for McNamee, filed a motion with the clerk of the Superior Court, asking that a jury pass upon statements contained in a plea of abatement prepared by him.

Greenwood claims that instructions given to the Grand Jury which investigated affairs of the trust company were prejudicial to the rights of the defendant.

MISS JESMER'S SUIT AGAINST PLANT READY

New York, April 5 (I.N.S.).—Through the signing of an order by Supreme Court Justice Mullan, directing the taking of depositions in Los Angeles, it became known today that the $500,000 action brought by Miss Helen Jesmer, former musical comedy beauty, against Philip Morgan Plant, heir to $15,000,000, will be called for trial in Supreme Court here Monday.

The suit grew out of what the police called a "joy ride," when young Plant, foster son of the late Commodore Morton F. Plant, with several young men friends, was escorting Miss Jesmer from New Haven to New York in a touring car. The car crashed into a tree, the occupants being hurled to the roadway and injured. Miss Jesmer is living in Los Angeles with her mother.

Secretary Weeks has already declined his invitation and it is believed that General Pershing will do likewise. Ousting from the service of all army officers who "violate the eighteenth amendment" was advocated today by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League as a result of the B. Y. O. B. invitation.

QUINN ACTS ON DEFICIT CHARGE

Calls Conference on $300,000 "Laxity" Report; Auditor Calls Situation Paper One

Acting on the charge that Cambridge faces a deficit of $300,000 because of laxity of city officials, Mayor Edward Quinn today called City Auditor Charles H. Thurston and City Treasurer John F. Lehan into conference.

The deficit charge is made in a report to the director of the division of accounts at the State House by Chief Examiner Edward Fenton.

Mayor Quinn declared no stone would be left unturned to remedy the situation. City Auditor Thurston explained that the alleged probable deficit is purely a paper one and that conditions are not half so bad as painted.

"One reason why the books show such a big deficit is the fact that we have not abated taxes of back years," he declared. "I agree that there has been laxity on the part of some, but it was done in the hope that we might yet collect some of these taxes.

"PURELY PAPER ONE"

"When tax abate taxes you have to add the total to the next year's tax rates, which boosts the rates. We did not want to do this. But now we will accept the suggestion of the auditor's office and abate some of them.

"We will do everything that can be done to make the paper work what it should be. But remember that the deficit we face is purely a paper one."

In the report Fenton stated that there was the slightest hint of dishonesty in Cambridge.

With a sound of undercurrent attack, the chief examiner sums things up by saying that the books in the office of the City Treasurer of Cambridge for the period between April 1, 1923, and July 7, 1923

LAXITY ALLEGED.

"Laxity is hereby alleged in that instead of the surplus of $500,000 indicated by the report of City Treasurer Lehan there is a 'prospective' deficiency of $300,000.

"The examiners believe," according to the report, "that the city is losing thousands of dollars annually while there is no hint of dishonesty, these leaders think has been largely due to the fact that the city's affairs have been mismanaged.

"The balance sheets show that on April 1, 1923, the surplus account was $500,000.62.

"But, $222,000.01 is tied up in the Tremont Trust Company and the Cambridge Trust Company, which banks are in default, and July 7, 1923

HITCHES BURGLAR TO POLE

Lynn Policeman Then Chased Pal in Vain, but Makes Eventual Round-up

Burglars want stand without hitching, so Patrolman Thomas Winslow of Lynn hitches them.

He hitched one to a telegraph pole in Lynn with a pair of handcuffs early today while he chased the burglar's two pals vainly through a number of lanes at once.

The hitched burglar was still hitched when the policeman came back, and he revealed the names and addresses of all, resulting in a 100 per cent round-up.

ALL PLEAD GUILTY.

Later, in Lynn court, the trio—John F. Kennedy, twenty-five, of No. 71 Leon place, Roland Brier, twenty-two, of No. 3 Hollingsworth street, and William McCombie, nineteen, of No. 11 Pine avenue, all in Lynn—pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and larceny.

They were given suspended sentences in Concord Reformatory and each was placed on probation for a year. Leniency was shown because none has a previous record.

Patrolman Winslow saw a man slip suddenly around the corner at Chatham and Mattapa streets and the others darted out of Dowse's store.

SOME LOOT RECOVERED.

The policeman seized Kennedy and made him fast to the telegraph pole with handcuffs. After his fruitless chase for the others, he went to McCombie's address furnished by Kennedy.

The fugitives were found in bed and a number of cigars, cigarettes, jewelry and other articles taken from the store were found.

3 FOUND SLAIN

leyard at the rear of a big building at Middlesex and Thorndike streets Lowell, Alexander Freeman of No. 182 Gilbert street, seen in front of the building with his back to the wall. Thrinking the man asleep or unconscious, Freeman notified the police.

The officers found the man dead. He was dressed in the rough clothes of a workman. A deep gash over the left temple is believed to have caused the man's death. The medical examiner declared that the wound was inflicted several days ago. An autopsy is being performed to determine the exact cause of death.

The man was about fifty years of age, five feet seven inches tall, and weighed 165 pounds.

The man had brown hair and a short mustache, both mixed with gray. The third finger of his left hand had been amputated below the middle joint. Everything had been removed from the man's pockets. Lowell police believe the man was murdered.

When William Kennedy pulled the body of a middle-aged man from the Merrimac river at Riverview park, the Lawrence police believe it was a simple case of accidental drowning that required little or no investigation.

In the man's pockets were found identification tags indicating that he was Adonis Fancher of No. 182 Gilmore street, Lowell. The Lowell police were notified and the Lawrence officials forgot the matter.

Joseph Bonsert of No. 55 Moody street, Lowell, changed the complexion of the case when he arrived in Lowell to take charge of the remains. Fancher had been his closest friend. One look at the body and he declared that it was not Fancher, but the body of a man with whom Fancher left Lowell, two weeks ago.

Bonsert did not know the name of the man—had never been introduced to him, but saw him in his friend's company. Fancher had told him that he and the stranger were going into the Vermont woods for the Summer and subsequently they left Lowell together.

The police were unable to understand how Fancher's effects came to be in the pockets of his companion. They are also puzzled by the fact that Fancher has disappeared, and it is feared that he, too, may have lost his life.

Boys searching for driftwood along the Crane River on the Andover-Tewksbury line, saw a body floating in the water. When police recovered the body it was found to be that of Bruce Bright, the missing Beverly youth.

The young man's head had been fatally dispersed on New Year's night. He was last seen at the place of Harvey Baker on Endicott street, Danvers port. Baker's place was raided by officers a short time later, Baker being charged with selling moonshine.

FIVE COUPLES TRY TO FLEE BY FIRE ESCAPE

Five couples attempting to flee the Grand Union Hotel, No. 1185 Washington Street, South End, via the fire escape when a vice squad swooped down on the premises, were trapped by Special Officer Garrett and a detail of police. All were brought to Station 5 and booked on statutory charges. They will be tried today.

MOTHER, UNCLE AND AUNT OF WAIF

EXPLAIN TOURAINE MYSTERY

Mrs. Harry McCarl (at top) is the mother of the little boy left by mistake at Hotel Touraine. Below are Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Tarburton, who explain the mystery. Mrs. Tarburton is Mrs. McCarl's sister and she and her husband are eager to adopt the little boy. Lawrence McCarl, whom Tarburton took to the Touraine when he intended to take him to the Brewster where the mother was supposed to be waiting for the child.

OFFER TO ADOPT BOY LEFT AT TOURAINE

Roy Tarburton, not so long ago a sailor in the United States Navy, wants to adopt the three-year-old boy he left by mistake on Wednesday night at the Hotel Touraine.

"I don't know where to find the baby's mother," Tarburton said in his new home at No. 2278 Washington street, Boston, "but I think I will sign the necessary papers. I will adopt the little fellow today, tomorrow or just as soon as we can make arrangements."

The happiest person connected with the recent mystery of the so-called Touraine baby appeared today to be young Master Lawrence McCarl, himself.

Still nearly three weeks shy of a third birthday, this is at least a partial list of the young man's charges and possessions within the brief space of two days.

No. 148 West Canton street.
Hotel Touraine.
La Grange Street Police Station.
Chardon Street Home.
No. 87 Waltham street.
No. 24 Middlesex street.

And if the boy is the most cheerful person connected with the story of his young life, his young mother, apparently, is the most concerned.

Lawrence was brought instead to a furnished room at No. 24 Middlesex street by one of the two young men upon whom he was dumped by his mother at No. 87 Waltham street on Thursday night following his recovery from the Chardon Street Home.

HIS LATEST "ESCORT."

The youth who deserted him at his latest known address—his mother has had one or two more by this time—described himself as James Greene.

"I got nothing to do with the case at all," Jimmy Greene said to reporters whom he thought "too nosey."

Mrs. Tarburton, who declared tearfully that she loves little Lawrence just as much as if he were her own, endorsed her husband's declaration of his willingness to adopt the boy.

"When Roy took little Lawrence into the Hotel Touraine," Mrs. Tarburton said, "and told an elevator man to deliver him to his mother in Room 405, it was with absolutely no intention of abandoning the little one.

"It was all a misunderstanding. I had located my sister in Room 405 at the Hotel Brewster in the company of Beverly Sinclair, whose right name is Alice Donahue and who lives in Central square, Cambridge, and it was I who telephoned to Roy to bring Lawrence down to her there.

"Roy got twisted when he reached Boylston street, and not knowing much about hotels picked the wrong one."

WIFE LOVE VALUED AT $50,000

Holsworth of Needham Brings Second Suit Against His Mother-in-Law

Fifty thousand dollars is now the cash value, placed by Wayne C. Holsworth of Needham, on the affections of his wife, Mrs. Doris Campbell Holsworth.

Holsworth has filed a suit in the Norfolk Superior Court for this amount against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Minnie B. Campbell of Windsor, Conn., now living in Boston, for alienation of his wife's affections.

Holsworth alleges that his mother-in-law caused the affections of his wife to act unlawful manner and persuaded her to leave his home. He alleges further that because of this he has been troubled and has suffered much mental disturbance.

There was a previous suit against Mrs. Campbell for alienation of affections. On that occasion, Campbell was awarded $5,000.

Last August, after his wife and child had been missing from home, he visited the Campbells' home in Windsor. His wife and baby were not at home, however. He grabbed the child and took it back to Needham.

The same month in law was the statement Holsworth gave out at that time.

Shortly afterward divorce proceedings were instituted by Mrs. Holsworth and in December the suit was absolutely settled and a reconciliation was called off.

WIDOWER SLAYS GIRL THEN KILLS SELF

Frederick, Md., April 5 (I.N.S.).—The clandestine love affairs of Leon Whiter, pretty twenty-two-year-old Butler's assistant, and Clinton Schnauffl, forty-year-old widower and grocery man, ended today in the murder of the girl by her suitor and his own suicide.

It was disclosed that the girl six times had been wounded by whom she thought was her lover, before he turned the gun on himself, fired to the home of his employer, Schnauffl, and shot himself with the same gun.

B. C. Forbes.

Mr. Forbes is known all over the United States as contributor of the daily column of Forbes' views on business and finance and as editor of Forbes' Magazine.

His writings possess a keen appeal to leaders in business and finance. His observations serve regularly as an indication of the trend of the times, a sort of barometer of the trade world in general.

Their accuracy for years past has led them to occupy a high place in the business man's estimation.

Mr. Forbes is keenly sought wherever he travels throughout the country, as a public speaker. He has accepted an invitation from Mr. Arthur Russell, vice-president of the New Haven, president of the Traffic Club of New England, to be a guest at a Traffic Club dinner at the Copley-Plaza April 22. CHECKS DISPLAY OF WEALTH BY GERMANS

Berlin, April 5.—While generally admitting that some measure was necessary to check the ostentatious display of wealth by Germans abroad, press and public opinion today was sharply critical of the presidential decree limiting the amounts taken out by traveling Germans and taxing all persons leaving the country except on business. Critics say it came too late.

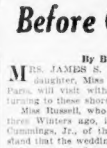
Miss Betty Russell to Visit In London Before Coming Home, Betty Alden Hears

By BETTY ALDEN

MRS. JAMES S. RUSSELL of Milton and her daughter, Miss Betty Russell, who are now in Paris, will visit with friends in London before returning to these shores.

Miss Russell, who made her debut some two or three Winters ago, is the fiancee of Charles K. Cummings, Jr., of the Harvard '23 class. I understand that the wedding of the young people is likely to be an event of next June.

SPECIAL praise should be given to Miss Constance Ripley, who, with Mrs. Robert Herrick, Jr., and Mrs. Reggy Foster, designed the costumes for "Wake Up," the Vincent show.



Mrs. P. J. Bradlee, Jr.

The costumes are exceptionally clever and lovely to look upon.

Not the least attractive are those worn by Miss Ripley and her sister, Julie, in the Pirates Dance, which they do together. They are dressed in truly dashing buccaneer style, with blouses of apple green satin, cerise breeches and "swashbuckling" boots of shiny patent leather.

Mrs. Frederick J. Bradlee, Jr., who has lost none of the charm of her Josephine de Gersdorff days, made very much of a hit in her "La Violetterra" song, not only because of her very lovely voice, but because she tossed into the audience small bouquets of violets.

MRS. JOHN E. THAYER, JR., (Kate Warren), all dressed up as a swagger man-about-town, drew many laughs for her "So This Is Boston" song, in which she did anything but sing the praises of her native city.

The costumes for the girls in the Debutante number were delightful affairs of jade green crepe, the two flounces of creme color lace on the front hem adding a novel touch. Small hats of jade with touches of creme color lace completed the costumes.

Miss Eleanor Winslow lead the Debutantes, who not only danced, but sang some verses in which they cautioned future buds that

"When you go with your beau to a party,

Industrial News and Notes

An infallible index of general business conditions is the trade fluctuation in the office supply business. Increased business in office supplies means a brighter business outlook.

That, at least, is the interpretation of the Osborne Office Furniture Company, dealers in office supplies to the leading industrial and financial businesses in New England.

And business prospects in New England must be pretty brilliant, if the reports of the Osborne Company furnishes any criterion, for it appears that the company is literally flooded with Spring orders for office equipment. From preliminary indications, all previous records of volume are doomed to be smashed.

In anticipation of the increased demand, the company recently purchased five carloads of desks. These desks were purchased at an exceptionally low price. They are now ready for delivery.

The company is located at High and Pearl streets. It is the acknowledged leader of office-supply trade in New England. It is the proud boast of the company that its clientele comprises the most reputable and the largest business houses in this section.

Extreme optimism prevails nationally in the tire manufacturing business. This, despite a seeming tranquility in the market, and the increasing lack of popularity of sales on Spring datings.

That the 1924 volume of business will easily surpass that of any previous year is confidently expected by leading manufacturers. The terrific output of cars and an unending increase in the market insures a growing demand, while the universal trend towards balloon and oversize tires augure an increase in the amount of the average tire purchase.

TWO FACTORS APPARENT.

At present two well-defined and diametrically opposed factors are readily apparent in the tire manufacturing situation.

The favorable factor is the steady increase in car registrations annually. The unfavorable factor is the decrease in the average number of tires worn out in a year. This latter can be traced to the increase in quality of tires, and also the annual increase in the number of cars used for short distances, or for a small portion of the year.

ALLOWS FOR EXPANSION.

This decrease in the average replacement of tires per car would have hit th tire business badly, were it not for the astonishing growth of the auto industry and the unending stream of new cars thrown on the market. This situation, elastic as it is, allows for continued expansion in the tire industry.

A reduction in price seems unprobable. In fact, according to leading dealers, a slight increase may occur before the close of the year. However, from present signs, the market will be remarkable quiet for some time to come.

Leaders in the ice trade in Massachusetts will attend the annual convention of the Massachusetts Ice Dealers' Association at the American House, Boston, April 10, 11, 12th. The convention represents the high-water mark in the get-together movement among the ice dealers and provides a common meeting ground for the local dealers.

Dr. Mary C. Pennington, a national authority on refrigeration, will be the principal speaker. The other speakers include Leslie Smith, national secretary of the National Association of Ice Dealers, and George H. Yoter, secretary of the Boston Ice Dealers' Association.

Dr. Pennington is an acknowledged expert on refrigeration. Her work for the United States government and large industrial organizations in improving refrigerator conditions in promoting a better use of ice, and promoting understanding between the ice dealers and the public have ranked high in her profession.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss delivery problems of individual dealers. It is the aim of the officers of the convention to determine the ideal condition which should exist between the various ice dealers and the trade, so-called.

RED HOT METAL FROM ENGINE HURTS WOMAN

Newark, N. J., April 5.—A five-pound piece of red hot metal blown high in the air from an exploding cylinder of a Lackawanna locomotive, landed on Lackawanna avenue, about 100 feet from the tracks, tearing a wound in the leg of Mrs. Mary Spara. The force of the explosion nearly caused a panic among passengers on the train. The train had just passed Broad street station and was bound for Chicago. It was pulling hard when the cylinder blew out, sending bits of steel in all directions.

BEST TIME OF YEAR TO BUY USED CAR

Many Purchasers Are Taking Advantage of American's Inspection Plan

Now is the time to buy a used car. Owners who ordered new cars last Fall for Spring delivery are turning in the cars they have been driving.

Other owners who have just decided to buy a new car are turning theirs in also.

There are bargains on the market—good bargains. If you want the pick of the used cars, machines in good running condition, now is the time to go after them.

The Boston American has inaugurated a novel and helpful plan to aid used car buyers in the selection of a machine—buyers who know nothing about automobiles, or who know not enough to feel that they can make a good selection themselves.

Under this plan—one that is endorsed by dealers and buyers alike—used cars are inspected by skilled mechanics furnished by the American.

These mechanics note their observations, good or bad, on the Boston American "Inspected-Insured" blue certificate. The condition of the brakes, steering gear, frame and other mechanical units, is placed on the certificate. The certificate is then pasted on the windshield, where a glance by the buyer will tell him the mechanical condition of the car.

Call on Firemen to Rescue Watchman Who Locks Self in Alfred Spear, No. 10½ Common street, a watchman, watched the building at Northampton street, South End, so well today that he locked himself in the place.

After being a prisoner several hours he attracted the attention of a policeman. The policeman endeavored without success to reach the owner of the building, Jacob Stein, of the National Shoe Company.

Then he called the firemen of Engine 23, who brought a long ladder and rescued the watchman.

10-CENT FEES AT CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL

City Institution's Out-Patient Department Treats All but Contagious Cases

This is the thirty-sixth of a series of articles which is a sequel to this newspaper's investigation of medical quackery in Greater Boston. If you are not acquainted with reputable physicians and wish to make sure of obtaining expert advice and fair dealing, the series will show you how to avoid quacks by patronizing Boston's health centres, the best in the country.

Metropolitan Boston is fortunate in the possession of such a health centre as the Cambridge City Hospital, located at No. 1493 Cambridge street.

The person of small or average means may go here for treatment when he is ill, with the assurance that his case will be diagnosed by a doctor accredited by the American College of Physicians and Surgeons, which is a guarantee against quackery.

This hospital, although only seven years old, has increased in size and in services rendered almost fourfold. It started as a 45-bed institution, and now has 110. Meanwhile, its staff of doctors and nurses has multiplied, and the Out-Patient Department, which was added in 1918, treats as many as 100 patients a day.

DAILY CLINICS.

The scope of treatment at this hospital includes all classes of diseases and affections except contagious.

On every day in the week, Sundays and holidays excepted, the Out-Patient Department is opened from 9 a. m. to noon.

On Monday morning, diseases of the ear, nose and throat are treated; and on Friday morning the eye clinic is held. Genito-urinary and skin clinics are also held Friday. Orthopedic clinics are held on Tuesday and Thursday; and pre-natal clinics, Wednesday. All clinics are held at the same hours, 9 to 12.

10-CENT FEE.

The admission for these clinics is purely nominal, 10 cents a visit. The fee is not exacted if the patient cannot afford it. Ward rates are also graded according to one's financial ability and waived altogether in very worthy cases.

Those who wish private rooms may have them at $35 a week, and semi-private, $25.

Ward rates for obstetrical cases are $50 for two weeks' care; private rooms for two weeks, $75, and two weeks in semi-private, $60.

Miss Gertrude D. Stapleton is superintendent.

The Boston American "Inspected-Insured" used car plan is endorsed as the most novel and helpful service ever rendered by a newspaper to its readers.

ALIENISTS WILL FIGHT THAW'S FREEDOM

Philadelphia Physicians to Testify He Is Still of Unsound Mind

Philadelphia, April 5.—Hospital alienists who have examined Harry K. Thaw will testify that Thaw is not mentally sound, when his application for release comes before a jury in Common Pleas Court on April 10.

John M. Patterson, counsel for Thaw, prepared to combat such testimony with that of alienists of his own selection. He said:

"There will be but one question for the jury to determine that is Thaw's present mental state. Personally, I believe he is sane."

Judge Martin in Common Pleas Court recently granted counsel for the committee of Thaw's estate the privilege of naming alienists to examine Thaw for the purpose of determining his mental state.

Excitement of a Political Campaign in Kennedy Employes' Balloting

All the excitement of a major political campaign attended the election of officers of the Kennedy Associates, the social and charitable organization of the employes of the Kennedy Company, Summer street clothiers.

After a spirited contest, in which the result was in doubt up to the last minute, Mortimer M. Guiney was elected president by a handsome majority.

The other officers are: Aaron F. Levine, vice-president; Francis F. Bradley, treasurer; William F. Duncan, recording secretary; George Harold Cave, financial secretary. The board of trustees are Joseph F. Noonan, P. Joseph McMahon, Eugene J. Ferguson, Mark J. Brown and James J. Nicholson, retiring president.

WIFE SAYS FELDMAN WAS A BOOTLEGGER

New York, April 5.—Charges that Albert Eugene Feldman had been associated with Emanuel ("Manuel") Kessler and Morris Sweetwood in big bootlegging deals before they were sent to Federal prison in Atlanta for liquor law violations are contained in a suit for separation filed by Mrs. Feldman.

Mrs. Feldman declared when he became involved with Kessler and Sweetwood he was well supplied with money, at times carrying as much as $40,000 in his pockets. She charged he had paid attentions to other women.

Mrs. Feldman asked temporary alimony of $200 a week and $2,000 counsel fees.

CUTS VERDICT GIVEN MAN FOR ALIENATION

New York, April 5.—Holding that a man "has a means of obtaining a livelihood," where a woman has not, Supreme Court Justice Carswell, in Long Island City, has reduced to $25,000 the verdict of $40,000 awarded Charles Babb, Brooklyn, against Clyde E. Black, for the alienation of Mrs. Babb's affections.

Justice Carswell gave Babb ten days in which to accept the reduction. Otherwise he said he would have granted Black's application for a new trial.

RICKARD SAYS THE LIGHTWEIGHT THRONE IS NOW VACANT

LEONARD TOO BIG FOR CLASS

Tex Rickard was authority today for the statement that the title of world's lightweight champion is now really vacant.

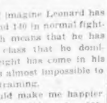
"Benny Leonard has grown well beyond the class and I am certain that he cannot ever again make 135 pounds unless they chop off a section of his anatomy," said the Gotham promoter.

Benny Leonard

Me informa tion is that after the most strenuous training last Summer for the Lew Tendler bout the best Leonard could do on fight day was 139½.

"Since then I imagine Leonard has gone well beyond 140 in normal fighting bulk, which means that he has outgrown the class that he dominates. The weight has come in his legs, where it is almost impossible to shear it off by training.

"Nothing would make me happier than if Leonard could make 135. For then I could put on a big lightweight show this Summer in addition to a bout for the welter title between Leonard and Mickey Walker.



Mickey Walker.

"But as for quitting in a lightweight championship classic well, it can't be done because Leonard cannot make the weight without coming close to killing himself."

Rickard has been angling for some time for a mixup between Walker and Leonard for this Summer. He wants to put on the show in his New Jersey arena, but Leonard would like to fight in New York, where decisions are allowed.

Benny isn't so sure that he can knock off the rugged Mickey, but is certain he can outpoint him. If he did that in Jersey, it wouldn't mean anything. If he did it in New York, where decisions are allowed, he would become world's welter king.

HOCKEY TITLE PASSES FROM BOSTON

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 5.—The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets won the hockey championship of the United States tonight by defeating Boston A. A. 6 to 1, at Duquesne Gardens. It was one of the poorest hockey matches of the year, the Bostonians being outclassed from the first face off.

Pittsburgh started off by bombarding Lacroix and the Boston goalie turned back many difficult shots before Conacher managed to shoot one past him. From then on it was only a matter of the number of scores Pittsburgh would make. Roger Smith duplicated the Pittsburgh captain's feat in less than two minutes, taking the rubber near his own net, he dribbled through the Boston defence and lifted the puck past Lacroix's club. The Boston defence looked bad on both scores. They were playing very close to centre ice and were out of play just as soon as the puck was past them, leaving the goalie to defend the net alone.

Paddy Sullivan added another before the period ended, taking a pass from Smith near the net.

Herb Drury got one of his exhibitions during the latter part of the second period, scoring twice in less than two minutes. He was unassisted in both scores and was forced to elude the entire Boston team.

Pittsburgh's final score was made by Alex McKinnon, who took the rubber on a rebound after Roger Smith had caromed one off Lacroix's slim guards.

As Smith registered Boston's only goal a few minutes later. He took the length of the rink, eluded Conacher and Smith and shot from a difficult angle for the score.

Harrington, Enright and Morrisey kept trying all through the game and if it had not been for their efforts the game would have been uninteresting.

CAMBRIDGE IS WINNER OVER OXFORD CREW

Putney, England, April 5.—[AP]—Cambridge University's varsity eight rowing crew today won a race defeating the heavier and more experienced Oxford crew in the seventy-sixth revival of their historic race on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake, over the four-mile course. The Light Blues won by about three and one-half lengths.

Cambridge won the toss and chose the Surrey or southern side of the course. This choice was a surprise to many of the experts, as it was generally expected the winner of the toss would choose the northern side, which afforded much protection from the wind, during the first two miles and at the finish.

The Oxonians were strong favorites in the betting, at 3 to 1, but there were plenty of Cambridge supporters.

The crews got away at 2:22 p. m.

At the mile mark Cambridge was leading by a quarter of a length.

With two miles covered Cambridge was leading by two lengths.

Oxford pulled up during the third mile, at the end of which the Cambridge advantage had been reduced to one length.

real get-together, one looked forward to by all, is scheduled for April 19, at which time the course will again be opened, and the hunt for the white pill and silverware begin in order once again. Following the outdoor party, the bob-nailed shoes will be discarded in favor of soft shoes to trip the light fantastic on the clubhouse dance floor.

Woburn still remains one of the few sporty golf links in the land, book of a man or woman of moderate means. And the hitch strings are now out. It is understood, too, that Mr. Wilcox is to round everything into perfection rapidly. Before the season has been far advanced it is his expectation to open up several of the regular putting surfaces.

Six Rounds Limit For Stribling

Young Stribling, Macon, Ga., schoolboy light heavyweight, must confine his boxing in New York State to six-round encounters, the State Athletic Commission decided today in refusing a request of "Pa" Stribling, his manager, to watch his son in a 12-round bout at an Olympic fund benefit show here. Stribling is but 19 years old and the State boxing law prohibits boxers under 21 from competing in exhibitions of more than six rounds.

Dilboy to Stage Amateur Bouts Next Week

On next Thursday evening in K. of C. Hall, Somerville, the George Dilboy Post, V. F. W., will stage its regular boxing tournament, which promises to be the banner show of the season. The committee in charge of the tournament are in receipt of entries from the topnotchers in each of the following classes, viz: 112, 126, 135, 147 and heavyweight, and all indications point to plenty of action for the followers of the simon pures.

Fred Russo.

At Mello of Lowell, who holds a few decisions over Joe Minehan the pride of Charlestown, will be on hand to defend his laurels in the 147-pound class.

RED SOX SURE TO SET HOT PACE

Shreveport, La., April 5.—The most improved club in baseball is the Boston Red Sox, Lee Fohl's outfit, tailenders in '23, will do a lot of fighting this season. The heritage Frank Chance handed to Lee was not so good. But trades and purchases have manufactured a really good machine and Fohl, in his capable and original manner, has established the necessary spirit and ambition.

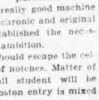
Lee Fohl

The Red Sox should escape the cellar by a couple of notches. Matter of fact, no baseball student will be startled if the Boston entry is mixed up in a torrid scrap for the top of the second division.

Boston's infield is improved at least 100 per cent., regardless of the fact that George Burns, a good first baseman, was let go.

Joe Harris can cover the bag acceptably and hit the apple ferociously. Bill Wambsganss, from Cleveland, is a fine second baseman.

Teamed up with Dudley Lee, the Tulsa sensation, Bill makes second base a real danger spot on the ball. Young Lee is fast and sure and game, a fine hitter and a good base runner. We will be greatly surprised if he doesn't turn out to be one of the season's sensations.



Joe Harris.

McMillan should be a good third. Rather new last year, he looks pretty nifty this Spring.

Fohl's catching will be just as good as anybody's, provided Steve O'Neill delivers as he can. Steve is a bit fat, but says he pounds will wear off. Picnich is present, and Val would help anybody's ball team.

Bob Veach will play left field in his usual steady fashion, and hit .300 and something.

Flagstead will play center, and Ike Boone, from San Antonio, right. Flagstead can go and get them, and he always hits.

Boone is a big chap, rather slow, but he can field well enough and he's a .400 batter. He knocked off a .400 average in Texas.

George Burns

Fohl thinks the Red Sox pitching had never been rated highly enough. He has Ehmke to start with and Picinich, two of the best. Jack Quinn is starting his twenty-fourth year as a pitcher, and as far as we can see he hasn't lost a bit of his effectiveness.

Ferguson, Piercy, Fullerton and Murray have all fooled around long enough to step into regular jobs, and Fohl sincerely believes that at least three of the quartet will do that. Then he has Oscar from Mobile, last with one of the Southern clubs, the only southpaw on the staff.

In addition, the club has three very promising kids, Howe, Ruffing and Ulrich, and all three will be retained for a part of the season at least.

FOUR BOXMEN BATTERED BUT RED SOX WIN, 10-8

By FRED C. LANE.

Dallas, Texas, April 5.—The Red Sox uncorked a weird baseball contest and, although victorious by the score of 10 to 8, departed from Texas rather fortunate. In all Manager Fohl used seventeen players to put over the win, four of whom were pitchers.

Manager Fohl was chased from the bench in the sixth inning after a number of erratic decisions by Umpire Erwin, who was in trouble with both teams all afternoon.

Ike Boone was the hero of the day. The former Texas leaguer hit one over the right field fence with the bases loaded, two down and the count three and two. It was the longest hit of the afternoon and incidentally the one blow that gave the Sox a victory over the Dallas Steers.

The Sox were rather fortunate in the first inning when a bad bounding ball hit Dudley Lee on the chin halting play for three minutes. The game youngster refused to quit and played through the contest apparently none the worse for the experience.

Bill Piercy took the rubber for the first time this season and held the locals to three hits. Bill displayed his famous speed ball that was only hit successfully on one occasion, Chatham, second man up, hit one of Bill's fast shooters over the left field wall.

The blow had little bearing on the battle, for in the second inning, Bill struck out two batters. This coupled with a fast double play in the fourth found him retiring in favor of Ruffing, making it evident that with an other week of conditioning he will be ready for the bell.

Four Red Sox pitchers were used by Manager Fohl, not merely for the experience, but to stop the heavy guns of the Steers. Ruffing relieved Piercy in the fifth inning and proved not a cold day pitcher. Steve O'Neill went behind the bat in place of Picinich to help the rookie, but to no avail.

Three singles in a row netted two runs for Walter Morris' team.

Fullerton next took up the cudgel. His main difficulty was locating the plate, but when he did accomplish this his offering was hammered to the four corners of the lot. The Steers gathered two in the seventh and three more in the eighth which found John Collins batting for him in the ninth.

HARVARD AND B. U. OPEN AT SOLDIERS FIELD

Harvard has Boston University as a baseball guest this afternoon on Soldier's Field in the first contest for either outfit. The game is scheduled for three o'clock.

Both nines have been retarded by the weather. Yesterday was the first time the Crimson could muster a full squad on Soldier's Field, and the varsity won, 4 to 2, in six innings.

Dolph Cheek

Little Joe McGlone, the all-around athlete, is being pursued by some jinx, and as the result Jack Hammond, the husky football and baseball coach, will start at second for Harvard. McGlone's spikes caught in the mud during practice yesterday and threw him. Result, no game today, and the chances are that he will miss making the trip South when the varsity starts a week from tomorrow.

Ken Hill and Phil Spalding, a pair of football luminaries, who are baseball vets also, are to divide the pitching honors. Cheek, another gridironer, will catch. Hill defeated B. U. last year, 6 to 3, in the opener, but the Terriers found him for thirteen hits. Louis Burke or Rowe will pitch for B. U.

YOUNG IN TEN-MILE CATHEDRAL RACE

Wallace A. Young of North Adams, the youngster who declined to accept a handicap in the Brockton Fair ten-mile handicap run last Fall, will be a starter in the annual ten-mile handicap run of the Cathedral Y. M'CREARY MAY BATTLE WILLS IN BIG BOUT AT PROVIDENCE

BATTLER IS FIT FOR TUSSLE

By JACK CONWAY

Harry Wills may battle Battling McCreary of this city in a ten-round bout at Providence prior to tackling Jack Dempsey, according to an announcement made today by Alex McLean, McCreary's manager.

"I have been asked to submit my terms for a tussle between Wills and McCreary at Providence," declared McLean. "Such a contest would prove just how good the Wills of today is. The fans would then know whether Harry is capable of winning the world's championship from Dempsey.

"I am of the opinion that McCreary can defeat Wills. When those men met in New York State some years ago, Wills won. At that time McCreary was a youngster and he gave his famous rival a spirited engagement. Since then McCreary has improved a great deal, while Wills has been going back.

"McCreary proved his class when he won the colored lightheavyweight championship from Kid Norfolk. The latter lost his last tussle to Norfolk on account of the lack of condition. He took the tussle on five days' notice and as a result entered the ring overweight.

"McCreary is virtually unbeatable at 175 to 180 pounds. I consider him another Sam Langford.

"McCreary is also a 'smart' boxer like Jack Johnson, whom I managed during his tour of Australia.

"I think I know the qualifications of boxers as well as anybody as I have been associated with flatle stars for years. I have managed Jack Johnson, Sandy Ferguson, Marty Baldwin, Gilbert Gallant and other stars. I don't hesitate in risking my reputation in backing McCreary to knock out men like Georges Carpentier, Gene Tunney and Tom Gibbons. I also believe he can defeat Wills, while he also has the ability to give Dempsey a severe test."

McCreary is training daily so that he will be ready to step in and box at his best if the match with Wills is closed.

TODD'S COURAGE REASON FOR KAYO BY MALONE

George A. Barton, writing in the Minneapolis Evening Tribune, has the following graphic account of Jock Malone's knockout of Roland Todd:

"Intent upon making a fast finish in the last round, Todd ripped into Malone with reckless abandon and landed three hard right handers to his opponent's jaw. Both were determined to win by a knockout, and fought desperately, each being so intent upon his work that he paid little attention to avoiding punishment. During a spirited mixup, Malone made Todd miss a right swing to the jaw, and catching the Britisher off balance, landed a terrific left hook to the chin, sending Todd staggering back.

"Roland tried to clinch and save himself, but Malone fought him off and drove him against the ropes under a volley of rights left and right hooks to the face and body. Suddenly Malone straightened up Todd with a stiff left fab to the mouth, measuring him perfectly for a right cross that landed with the speed and force of a bolt of lightning flash on the point of the Englishman's jaw.

TODD GETS UP AFTER THE FINISH KNOCKDOWN

"Todd crumpled up on the floor near his own corner.

Calling upon all of his courage and fighting instinct Todd pluckily staggered to his feet only to be met by another scathing right-hander to under a volley of rights left and right hooks to the face and body. Suddenly Malone straightened up Todd with a stiff left fab to the mouth, measuring him perfectly for a right cross that landed with the speed and force of a bolt of lightning flash on the point of the Englishman's jaw.

"It was really too bad that Todd had to lose by a knockout after waging such a game battle, especially with the end of the fight so close at hand. There was a genuine feeling of regret among the crowd that he did not last the limit.

"Todd displayed too much grit, permitting valor to outweigh discretion in his eagerness to turn the tide of battle in that final session. Characteristic of his nation, Todd went down fighting and won the admiration of the multitude that witnessed the contest. The Britin showed poor ring generalship in that last round. He was clearly outpointed for nine rounds and should have been content to stall through the last session and be on his feet at the bell. There was no such thought in Todd's makeup. He carried on to the finish and paid bitterly for his efforts."

Malone tackles Angie Ratner at the Plaisell Club on next Saturday night.

DELANEY SAYS HE WILL STOP ROBINSON

Fandom, which loves a fighter who can punch, will be enabled an opportunity to cheer long and loud when Jack Delaney gets into action with George Robinson in the feature bout of the Suffolk show at Mechanics Building on Thursday evening.

Delaney

Delaney's remarkable punching has won him favor in every city where he has shown. New England fans need no further proof of his ability to punch than accounts of his fight with Berlenbach when he went to the canvas seven times. It might be added that he had Tommy Robson, Lou Bogash and Frank Carbone on the floor taking a long count.

However, Delaney feels that he did not show at his best in his Boston appearance, when he whipped the classy Tommy Loughran. He feels that Loughran fought on the defensive most of the ten rounds, and offered very little chance to shoot his powerful right.

"I want a chance to show New England fans that I am a better puncher than I showed in Boston. I am fool that Robinson is a rough type of battler, who will walk out and fight. If so, I am confident that I will be able to make the colored middleweight take the count," says Delaney.

Delaney expects to conclude his training at Grupp's about Monday and will leave for Boston Tuesday to finish work for his first big match since the Berlenbach clash. Delaney will work out in Boston on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

Matchmaker Tom Goodwin expects to complete the card for the Suffolk A. C. show today. There is but a slight hitch on two of the bouts which will make one of the best programs cards ever offered New England fans. He is planning on eight rounders between Jimmy Amato White, who showed here but with Jack Schoendorf, and Felix King of Berlin, N. H.

King has taken part in two matches recently, stopping Sam Dillon, and losing to Nate Siegel. Eddie Williams and Jimmy Farrell, who will battle for the featherweight championship of East Boston, and Teers McManus and Dinnie Gilbert, who will settle the Roxbury lightweight supremacy.

You protect yourself when you are guided by the blue "Inspected-Insured" certificate on the windshield of the used car. Look for it.

SIEGAL WANTS ANOTHER BATTLE WITH LOWERY

By RINGSIDE.

Nate Siegal, former New England welterweight champion, was around town today as full of fight as he was before he clashed with Rob Lowery. He was accompanied by Eddie Mack, his training manager.

"I'll do the talking, Nate the fighting," said Edward as he parked himself on our desk. "Just jot this down, as my new racing boat is lingering down on Summer street and I don't want it tagged by one of Mike Crowley's sharpshooters.

"Mister Siegal of Revere is still very much in the fighting game. He is not offering any alibis for his defeat at the hands of Lowery. He merely asks for another shot at the scoundrel. In such an event he'll win sure.

"I was sorry that trouble with a wound I received while in France prevented me from being in Nate's corner when he battled Lowery. I am sure that if I had been behind Siegal in the second round he would have won by a knockout. I would have put the whip to Siegal, as they say in race track circles, and the young man who pinched holes in Jimmy Kirby would have breezed down the home stretch an easy winner.

It is understood that several clubs are already negotiating for another contest between Siegal and Lowery.

STAGE SET FOR CANDLE PIN CARNIVAL

Four hundred and seventy-five sets of brand new candle pins will be used during the world's championship candle pin tournament which opens Monday night at the Arena and continues through Patriots Day. This is the exact number of five main teams entered in the tournament, the world's record entry list in candle pin competition.

Roy Booth

This is only one feature that goes to make the tournament the last word in deal competition. Brand new alleys, 14 in number, and brand new balls and a lighting system used that has never been employed before are other great features of the championships.

The Arena in its present makeup presents an appearance that would startle hockey fans. The 14 alleys, the gigantic scoreboard, the dance floor, surrounded by Fakir Row, and the Arena lobby converted into a Midway that equals anything of its kind ever offered an outdoor fair, are just a few of the attractive features of the coming tournament.

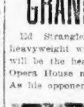
Aside from the winning bowlers, the proudest persons in the Arena for the next two weeks will be the pin boys. Manager Booth has selected the 31 leading pin boys of New England. Each will wear a blazer with "World Champions" lettered across the breast, for they are the candle pin champion setters of the universe.

Everything is set for the grand opening Monday night when Mayor Andrew M. Peters officially opens the competition at 7:45 by bowling the first mahogany ball, in which a silver plate is imbedded and suitably engraved, to the fourth pinsetter this ball to the city's chief executive.

Even the brakes are tested by mechanics under the Boston American "Inspected-Insured" used car plan. Look for the blue certificate.

STRANGLER WILL WRESTLE AT GRAND OPERA

Ed Strangler Lewis, champion heavyweight wrestler of the world, will be the headliner at the Grand Opera House next Thursday night. As his opponent, Paul Bowser, has secured Peter Kosloss, the Russian giant.



Strangler Lewis

Kosloss is a newcomer to Boston mat fans, but it is a safe bet that he has the goods or Bowser wouldn't have signed him up for the match.

Count Zarynoff, the other Russian that Bowser imported, made good last Thursday night with a vengeance and Paul says this Kosloss is even better than the Count. He will be in Boston Monday and fans will have a chance to see him in trim.

The other half of the all-star bill will be between Stanley Stasiik, champion of Poland, and Jack Linow, the Russian lion.

Linow has been hot on the trail of Stasiik for a long time and has made several trips to Boston to try and force the big Pole into the match.

It will be a case of lion meet lion when these two meet. They are without a doubt the nearest matched wrestlers of any two men that ever appeared on a mat in Boston. Both men stand six feet three inches and both weight about 225 pounds.

As there is a great rivalry between the Russians and Poles, and both are favorites with their countrymen, their followers will be out in force to see the fray.

It is a safe bet that Bowser will make Sandow come to a show down as far as a match between Stasiik and Lewis is concerned. Wires and all kinds of correspondence have been of no avail and it looks as if Sandow would crawl out of the bout. Still when both men get on the ground it will be a case of show me. This will be the first appearance in the East of Lewis since his marriage and his bride will be with him to cheer him to victory. In the opening bout Frank Dutcher will meet Jack Albright in a one-fall match.

BRAVES NEED HITTERS TO STRENGTHEN TEAM

By NICK FLATLEY.

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 5.—The Braves played the Senators here today and then called it a Florida year. The athletes go away from here in the morning, stumble through the wilds of Georgia and various other States, and emerge into Philadelphia in time for the official opening of the season.

Al Nixon

This hasn't been the greatest Spring season in history by a long number of years, but the weather at least has been as good here as it has anywhere in the solidly stormy South. Too much heat was supposed to have affected the '23 Braves down this way, but the new club can never have the same screech. However, the baseball cheers have been hummed into good enough shape, and unless they hit blizzards and things on the way toward competition, they will be ready for the well-known and much heeled siirlist from the wire.

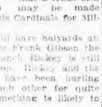
The club, not raised any too highly by the world in general, may be a surprise. The players have a lot of confidence, and have been winning from here and that combination is likely to make them very hard to beat, anytime. If they can knock the Senators off on the way home, the start of the season should be a pretty good one.

All the jobs on the team are practically settled now, with the exception of third base. Jack Welteher and Bob Smith are running along about even for that corner, but we have an idea that a trade still may be made with the St. Louis Cardinals for Miller Stock.

The Braves still have holdovers at the catcher, Frank Gibson the holdout, and Hornie Rickey is still hugging a backstop. Rickey and the Boyle officials have been hurling telegrams at each other for quite a while and something is likely to come of it all.

Stock would help the Braves a whole lot because he can hit the ball in addition to being mighty good around the base. The Braves crofts need hitting strength above everything else, and should be willing to do some sacrificing to get it. Rickey has tried all the clubs he is a catcher, and has been turned down. His best chance is with the Braves, who have a regular hole for that can be spared, and Branch knows it. His first offers were preposterous, but now that the season is approaching very rapidly, he just naturally will have to become reasonable.



Babe Marquad

Gibson is holding out, not for money, but because he wants a chance to catch ball games. He's a whale lot better than many a receiver in active competition, both as a catcher and a hitter. He's a fighter and a hustler too, and would be mighty good with a chance to work regularly. He looks to be away above what other clubs could offer, and the Braves might trade Earl Smith, Rickey of course, wanted Mickey O'Neill. So does every manager. But friend Michael will stay with the Braves. He's about the best in the business, just flow. Smith is a great hitter and a good backstop, and with him present, Gibson would naturally be a wallflower.

The veteran Stock is holding out on the cards, too, but he could be satisfied easily enough provided a deal was made for him. He has been anchored a long time in St. Louis, and the chance would do him good. Many an old timer adds a couple of years to his active career by shifting scenes. The new team and the strange home crowds act as a lash to ambition of something of the sort.

Announcements are bing prepared for the pruning off of the rookies who have been enjoying the good weather Florida had to offer. The Braves have something like a dozen athletes to send out to the road and will place practically all of them.

The best of the lot will go to Worcester, which is now a Braves subsidiary now, though two or three may be parked in the big minors, being just about ripe for that sort of stuff.

The Braves break camp tomorrow, trailing away from here in the late morning. Their first stop will be Albany, Ga., where they will tackle the Reading Internationals. Then they take on the Senators fully until they reach the capitol.

The Braves had a lot of hitting practice yesterday, while they were defeating the St. Petersburg Florida, league outfit by a 15 to 3 score.

It was just one of those games that show the difference between the majors and the minors in the matter of baseball.

The first road game will be played Monday at Albany, Ga., where the Reading Internationals will furnish the competition. After that daily games with the Senators are in order.

TOMMY NEE OUT FOR RING ACTION

Tommy Nee

Tommy Nee, the clever 118-pound boxer, has taken up the strenuous part of his daily training stunts in a local gym. He is ready to resume hostilities where he left off at the unforced lay-off, due to an injured hand, responded to the treatment very nicely, and is as strong as ever.

Tommy would like nothing better than to hear from Abe Friedman in a return bout at the little pomidase. With the exception of Friedman, Nee has met every opposition favorable with alarming success, and in consideration when promoters are in search of material for a championship affair. Fifty per cent of the South Boston boy's rivals have succumbed to the hefty left hook that he possesses.

Tommy would like to see Friedman get a chance at the featherweight title, which is held by Johnny Dundee, of Scranton, Pa., who is now in Boston.

JOHNNY BUFF IS A BUZZSAW ONCE BELL RINGS

Johnny Buff, former world's bantamweight champion, who clashes with Young Dencio, Filipino fly-weight sensation, in the feature ten-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building on Tuesday night, is one of the greatest crowd pleasers in the ring game.

Buff's victory over Pete Herman was very popular with the fans, and is likely to be repeated on Tuesday when he is seen in the ring.

Buff is a typical two-fisted fighting man. He is forcing the issue from bell to bell and refuses to give ground for any opponent.

Dencio, although rated as highly as Pancho Villa, will have to travel faster than at any time during his colorful career if he is to win on Tuesday night. Buff will be in there fighting all the way and will never avoid an opportunity to trade wallop with his opponent.

Dencio has been working out daily at Kelly & Haves' gym and has made a big hit with those who have seen him in action.

Like Villa, Dencio whirls around the ring at a terrific speed. He hammers from all angles and with resounding force.

The semi-final of ten rounds will bring together Matty Cords of Lynn and Benny Nelson of Lowell. This should also be a spirited engagement. Both boys are flyweights.

There will also be a couple of eighths. Matty Cordis of Lynn will meet Benny Nelson of Lowell, while Young Corbeau of Peabody will oppose Jackie Williams of Chicago.

WHITTALL REPLAYS SOCCER GAME TODAY

Worcester, April 5.—The Patton Charity cup soccer game which resulted in an 8 to 1 victory for the Whittall A. A. over the Scandinavian A. C. two weeks ago, will be replayed this afternoon at Whittall Field due to a violation of the rules by the Whittall team.

Nuuli, who was a big factor in the Whittall win, was not registered 14 days before the game, as called for by the rule. As a result he was ineligible to compete. He had registered 10 days before, which fact was overlooked by Whittalle.

Check these advanced features of the True Blue Oakland

1 Its six-cylinder, L-head motor is a marvel of smoothness, power and economy. Over two years of the severest tests have proved the soundness of its advanced design.

2 Four-wheel brakes! Oakland is the only car at its price that offers the complete safety of brakes on all wheels!

3 Note particularly Oakland's individual finish. It's an entirely new substance—DUCO—which cannot fade nor check.

4 Observe how convenient it is to drive! Controls are mounted on the steering wheel—horn, ignition switch, choke, light-dimming lever and throttle are always at your finger-tips.

5 The top is permanent—exclusive with Oakland at its price! Curtains fit more snugly. A special Glass Enclosure ($60 additional) transforms the touring car into a comfortable closed model.

6 Five disc wheels are standard equipment! So are cord tires! Where—at a price so low—can you equal this remarkable car?

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

It's becoming a less hopeful world for nephews and other distant relatives having wealthy bachelor uncles or other kin owning profitable businesses. A new fashion is coming into vogue.

Instead of bequeathing business to relatives, more men are either turning over their establishments to faithful employes or bequeathing them in their will.

This would seem to be something about the textile business which inspires this gift-giving to associates. Several large concerns in one or other branch of the Dry Goods Industry have lately been presented by the owners, or turned over on the easiest of terms to associates and employes. This week's newspapers report that one New York hosiery man left more than $100,000 to his associates and workers.

After all, most busy business men come into closer contact with and see much more of their coworkers than their distant relatives. Moreover, heads of firms are coming to realize more and more that they owe their success in no small measure to the loyal co-operation of those about them.

Another significant and gratifying development is the steady, even rapid, purchase of shares of companies by their employes.

Think of it: In one month January last to fewer than 11,079 of the New York Telephone Company subscribed for stock in the parent company, American Telephone and Telegraph. They subscribed for 36,750 shares, which have a market value of about $4,730,000.

Before then employes had finished paying for 129,362 shares, worth today approximately $16,650,000. This means that employes have subscribed for a total of $21,095,809 worth of stock.

Employes of the Pennsylvania R. R. have purchased through their Employes Provident & Loan Association, 19,666 shares of the road. This represents at current quotations almost $900,000. A report giving these figures was issued this week.

Public utility corporations have been particularly enterprising in inducing not only their employes but their customers to subscribe for their stock and bonds.

A report covering the latest twelve months will be presented to the annual convention of the National Electric Light Association to be held in Atlantic City next month.

The facts will be given in this column, the writer having been invited to make a talk on this subject.

Rails and Oils Are Leaders in Renewed Upward Movement in Wall Street

CARRIERS RISE AROUND 5 POINTS

Railroads and oils were leaders on the week-end in a renewed upward movement on the New York Stock Exchange. There were gains of around 5 points for New Orleans, Texas & Mexico and Norfolk & Western, the former at a new high for 1924.

Erie 1st pfd., "Mop" pfd. and Western Pacific were all at new highs for the year. Utah Securities hit a new high.

Pan-American issues and Producers & Refiners led the oils upward.

General Electric was shaded more than a 4 points. Chandler lost a point.

American Aggie issues both sold off to new lows for the year.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, United Fruit was up 3 points. Eastern S. S. 1st pfd. lost a point. Maine Central lifted 2½. Old Colony sagged a point.

Boston & Maine Class C went up a point.

Production of Calumet & Arizona Mining Co. of only 878,000 pounds of copper in March, compared with 2,824,000 pounds in February, represented smelter production only. The latter output in March amounted to 3,280,000 pounds, or the usual amount, but owing to an alteration in the dust chamber of the roasting department at the smelter only a small amount of ore was smelted.

The accumulated ore will be put through the smelter during April and will probably account for a larger production of copper in that month than usual.

INTERDEPENDENCE

THE well being of the people depends upon the interdependence of industries and the co-operation of men and women within them. The co-operation of wool growers, manufacturers, the textile trade and clothiers produces the cloth that clothes the people, and in this worthy enterprise the American Woolen Company endeavors to contribute its just share.

$50,000 HULL FIRE LAID TO BOOTLEGS

He'll Remain Bootblack, Despite Legacy

NON-SUPPORT CHARGE BY TREASURER'S WIFE

When the husband of Mrs. Willis testified that he only drew $50 a week from the electrical concern of which he admitted he was virtually the owner, the case was postponed until the accounts of the concern can be examined to see how much money was made last year. Only testimony on financial resources of Willis was heard in court, all other charges being avoided.

G. A. R. MEET TO USE HISTORIC GAVEL

A mahogany gavel made from the original wood of Faneuil Hall, the [illegible] was presented to Mayor Curley today by Attorney E. [illegible] president of the Massachusetts Society of Sons of the A[illegible] Revolution.

The gavel was fashioned from a railing of the stairway leading to the famous assembly room.

The Mayor, in turn, presented the gavel to Fred E. Bolton, first vice-chairman of the executive committee of the G. A. R. convention which meets here in August.

Youngstown.—Angered because his wife did not withdraw a suit for divorce, Andy Haviaty today shot and killed her and fatally wounded himself.

OWNS CONCERN, DRAWS $50 A WEEK PAY

The separate support case of Mrs. Elizabeth Willis of Allston against her husband, Guy C. Willis, treasurer of the Seth W. Fuller Electrical Company, was continued indefinitely after Judge Prest, in Suffolk County Probate Court, heard witnesses on the financial resources of Willis.

Mrs. Willis charged her husband with non-support and cruel and abusive treatment. Numerous conferences at the bench resulted in the taking of testimony relative only to the finances of Willis. After other matters were avoided.

After Willis stated that he draws but $50 a week from the business and testified that he is virtually owner of the electrical business, Judge Prest continued it until such time as counsel for Mrs. Willis can go over the accounts of the electrical concern to ascertain how much money was made last year.

MANY ARE KILLED IN ADRIATIC HURRICANE

Venice, April 5.—A hurricane swept the northern part of the Adriatic today, capsizing fishing boats and drowning several fishermen. Heavy damage was done at Lido and other coast resorts. The storm has made passage of the Venice canal dangerous on account of rough water.

The river Po is rising from torrential rains and a flood is feared. Heavy snows are blocking the northern mountain passes, increasing the danger of a flood if a thaw sets in.

SOUTH END LODGER FOUND DEAD BY GAS

Kenneth Gills, sixty, years old, a lodger at No. 21 Dover street, South End, was found dead in bed from accidental gas poisoning today. The landlady, Mrs. Barbara Harper, smelled gas and on entering Gills' room found the gas tube in some way had become disconnected from the gas stove that he had left burning when he went to bed last night.

NO BANANAS TODAY IN BURNED STORE

There are no bananas in the Quincy Fruit Shop today.

There are no oranges or grape fruit or apples, either—worth eating. The Quincy Fruit Shop at Nos. 102-104 Quincy Market, owned by John Doyle, was burned out early today with a loss of $2,000.

The fire was of unknown origin.

Two Die in Powder Blast

London, April 5.—Many houses were wrecked and at least two persons killed when a powder factory at Bari blew up, said a Central News dispatch from Rome today. It is feared there were many other casualties.

HULL FIRE IS LAID TO BOOTLEGS

Steamship Company's Old Yacht Club Pier Destroyed, With Loss of $50,000

Fire of mysterious origin, attributed to bootleggers, early today destroyed the Nantasket Steamboat Company's "yacht-club pier" at Pemberton with a loss estimated by the police at $50,000.

The pier is not the landing at which the side-wheelers of the boat company make their stops, but a landing near the adjacent coal pockets, at which three or four of the seven boats of the fleet are tied up for the Winter.

BOATS SAVED.

The big boats were saved from destruction by a water curtain provided by the 150 firemen of Hull and Hingham, who fought the fire for more than two hours, beginning five minutes after midnight.

For a time, the famous Hotel Pemberton, largest and most important in the town of Hull, appeared to be in danger from the flames. The efforts of the fire-fighters to save this important and historic property were crowned with success.

HINGHAM SENDS AID.

The property destroyed, known in Hull as the "old yacht club pier," consisted of a big shingle-covered wooden building packed with lifebelts, lifeboats, rafts and other property of the company, and, it is said, a quantity of government stores belonging to Fort Revere.

Walter Cobb, an employe of the steamboat company, residing in the neighborhood, was the first to notify Fire Headquarters at Green Hill of the blaze. Chief Henry Stevens arrived with the first detachment of men and apparatus and promptly asked Boston for the assistance of a fireboat and telephoned for other help from Hingham.

600 WITNESS BLAZE.

Notwithstanding the somewhat isolated location of the fire, and the fact that no trains were running, the battle between flames and firemen was watched by more than 600 persons. The line of motor-cars reached all the way from Pemberton to Allerton.

Frederick L. Lane, general manager of the steamboat company, which five years ago celebrated its 100th anniversary, declared early today that he was not at all satisfied with "the look of things" and would ask the authorities to conduct a most searching investigation.

The loss of one or more of the company's fleet on the very edge of a new season would have been a serious blow, not only to the owners but to thousands upon thousands of Bostonians and summer visitors.

The town authorities, it is said, would appeal to State Fire Marshall George C. Neal at the State House to take personal charge of the desired inquiry.

In what way bootleggers could be tied up to the fire none of those who this morning advanced the theory would explain, but it is known that the locality has been the haunt all winter of men identified with the illicit trade in contraband liquors.

MRS. FLORENCE G. BLAKELEY

Somerville woman wants divorce action brought by her husband to continue so that her good name may be cleared.

WIFE INSISTS DIVORCE TRIAL MUST GO ON

An attempt on the part of Mrs. Florence G. Blakeley, of Somerville, to settle the divorce difficulties in which she and her husband, Frederick P. Blakeley, an official of the Town Taxi Company, have been involved for some two years, failed, when she appeared before Judge Morton in the equity motion session of the Suffolk Superior Court. Mrs. Blakeley declared she wanted the case heard so her name could be cleared.

Chief Justice Hall referred the case to the equity motion session. Judge Morton heard arguments of counsel in chambers and without hearing testimony referred the case back to the chief justice.

Mrs. Blakeley was formerly Miss Florence G. Blevins of Franklin street, Cambridge, and was widely known in the University city.

MRS. CONVERSE STEPS CUBAN DANCE IN FILM

New York, April 5.—Mrs. James Vail Converse, daughter of Henry Hays Morgan, former American Consul at Brussels, and a twin sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, has finished the first scene in which she appears as a motion picture actress. Mrs. Converse, it was stated, aided in making of "atmosphere" and danced a Cuban dance in a film soon to be released.

Mrs. Converse, some time ago said she intended making a career for herself in the films, because society offered nothing for an ambitious woman, and the social round was jaded.

Rev. E. H. Wright Dead

Sanbornton, N. H., April 5.—Rev Elisha H. Wright, a retired minister and former member of the State Legislature, died today at the age of eighty-three. He had held pastorates of the Christian denomination in this State, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Three sons, one of them Representative Robert Wright of Sanbornton, survive him.

FREED AS RIVALS ARE AT PRAYER

Relatives Called for Release or Conviction of Mrs. Essie Gross

New York, April 5.—Mrs. Essie Gross, twenty-five years old, was acquitted of the murder of her husband, Irving, in a few minutes more than an hour after the case had been given to the general sessions jury.

The acquittal came as rival groups of relatives prayed for release or conviction of the woman, and was followed by a demonstration of her friends that could only be stilled by the interference of the police, who escorted the shouting celebrants from the Criminal Courts Building.

Mrs. Gross collapsed.

PRAYERS IN CORRIDOR.

As the jury deliberated, friends and relatives of the accused woman held a Jewish religious service in an adjoining court room, while relatives of the slain man prayed for her conviction in the corridor.

Gross was killed in his Bronx apartment last December. The wife's defence was that her husband was accidentally shot as they struggled for possession of a gun after a quarrel over Gross' alleged mistreatment of her.

Mrs. Gross was the fifth woman to stand trial for murder in New York City during the last fourteen months. The first three were convicted, the last two acquitted.

THREE WOMEN CONVICTED.

In February, 1923, Mrs. Lillian Raizen was convicted of murder in the second degree for killing Dr. Abraham Glickstein. A week later a jury returned a second degree verdict against Mrs. Paulette Sahides for killing Oscar M. Martellone. In June Mrs. Anna Buzzi was convicted of first degree murder, for killing Frederick Schneider.

The case was heard in Bronx County and did not mar the record of New York County, in which no woman has ever been convicted of first degree murder.

One day after the Buzzi verdict Mrs. Mary Lonergan was acquitted of the murder of her husband.

In the charge to the jury, Judge Mancuso told the jurors they were not to be swayed by the defendant's sex and were not to be influenced by the emotion displayed in court by Mrs. Gross, her relatives or the relatives of the slain man.

MOTOR DIFFICULTY HALTS WORLD FLIERS

Seattle, Wash., April 5.—Motor trouble with the plane of Major Frederick L. Major Martin said that another start would not be attempted until tomorrow.

VANDERLIP IS OUT OF U. S. RUBBER CO.

The resignation of Frank A. Vanderlip as a director of the United States Rubber Company was announced today. It is understood that Matthew C. Brush, former president of the Boston Elevated, will succeed Vanderlip as director.

M. C. Brush

If Brush is named to succeed Vanderlip, will mark his second succession to the international banker. A year ago the former Elevated head was elected to succeed Vanderlip as chairman of the executive committee of the American International Corporation, of which he is also president.

The former Bostonian has been successively a newsboy, hotel clerk, steamship clerk, purser, machinist's apprentice, roundhouse foreman, general railroad foreman, shipyard laborer and president of the concern operating the Hog Island shipyards. He is a director in many large corporations.

"AMERICAN BARS" BANNED IN AUSBACH

Ansbach, Bavaria, April 5.—"American bars" will probably disappear from Ansbach, and "soft drinks" will be replaced by some German word which suggests the idea of a barber shop.

The town council has decided to place a special tax on all foreign words used in any sort of advertising. The tax is to be one renten mark for every letter used in this manner.

When Miss Elizabeth Walsh, sixty-five years old of No. 42 East Springfield street, South End, retired she neglected to turn off an open gas jet. This morning she was found dead by Mrs. Francis C. Castalle, a lodger at that address. Miss Walsh was employed by the Boston City Hospital.

Duel With Gloves May Be Fought by Maeterlinck

Milan, Italy, April 5 (A. P.)—Following a challenge sent by Sebastiani Rondi, a Sicilian lawyer, to Maurice Maeterlinck, famous Belgian poet, for an alleged defamatory article concerning the poet's Sicilian trip, speculation has been aroused in sporting circles here as to whether the affair will be settled with the gloves or a duel with the sword or pistol.

Maeterlinck's prowess with the gloves is well known.

MOTHER-IN-LAW LOSES BATTLE IN COURT

Ira M. Conant of No. 24 East Carver road, Watertown, won a legal battle against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emmaline Loud, in the Waltham Court today.

His mother-in-law told the court that he had also won another battle at home a few days ago, when she alleges he choked her, pushed her down the stairs and broke her eyeglasses. Judge Hannon declared in court that he believed the story of Conant and found him not guilty. Conant made a general denial of the charges of his mother-in-law.

The row grew out of proceedings in the East Cambridge Probate Court, where Conant recently secured a divorce from Mrs. Conant on grounds of misconduct. While the case was still on the young daughter of the Conants was in the custody of the mother-in-law. Conant went to the house to see the child and an argument started which resulted in the court proceedings today and the charges by the mother-in-law.

4 DEAD, 34 WOUNDED, IN CALCUTTA STRIKE

London, April 5.—Four mill workers were killed (and thirty-four wounded at Cawnpore, where police fired upon a group of rioters, said a Central News dispatch from Calcutta today.

THAT'S HOW MICHAEL SHINES

Worcester Man, Left $75,000 by Uncle, to Continue as Knight of Brush

Worcester, April 5.—A mere $75,000 legacy isn't going to make Michael Murno give up his bootblack stand.

Blacking boots is where Michael shines, and he is going to stick to it, he declares, despite the fact that an uncle he has never seen, has died in Argentine, willing him $75,000.

Murno conducts an establishment at No. 28 Main street, where he employs four other knights of the brush and dauber. He is married and is the father of a five-year-old boy.

"I shall buy a home for my family," he said without excitement, when informed that he had been bequeathed a small fortune.

"I shall create also a trust fund for my son, to insure the necessary money for his education. He isn't going to be a bootblack if I can help it."

Murno is not ashamed of his profession—not at all. He believes merely that there is more money to be made with less work than in his present line of endeavor.

The legacy was left by the brother of his father. Although the bootblack has never seen the uncle, he had continued a practice begun years ago, of writing to his uncle at frequent periods.

This, he believes, may have been a factor in determining the bequest.

BOOT OF SLAIN GIRL FOUND AT RIVER

Chicopee, April 5.—When police today tried to recover the body of fourteen-year-old Sophie Cupiak, a report was circulated that Stanley Zalewska, seventeen, had made important changes in the alleged confession in which he told the police that he beat the girl to the roller of his home in Willimansett and rolled her body down the riverbank.

The finding of one of the rubber boots worn by the girl when she was killed and also a piece of matting identified as the one in which Zalewska says he rolled her body, both on the westerly side of the river, served to strengthen the belief that Zalewska's first story of his disposal of the girl's body was not correct.

He said that after throwing the body into the river near the east bank he rowed into midstream and there threw the matting overboard, both the boot and matting were found not far downstream from where the body is said to have been thrown in and with the current running as it is it is believed this would accordingly have been possible if the youth's story is true in all particulars.

Night boats were used today, in charge of State Detective David J. Manning.

CROOKER TESTIMONY IN PROBE GUARDED

Washington, April 5 (C.N.S.).—Members of the Daugherty Investigating Committee are guarding the nature of testimony to be presented by Conrad Crooker, Boston man, who has been subpoenaed to appear before the committee.

Not only did the committee fail to reveal the nature of evidence Mr. Crooker is expected to give, but no information was forthcoming as to his residence while in the capital awaiting an opportunity to testify.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, prosecutor for the Daugherty committee, said today it would probably be a week before Crooker would take the stand.

Crooker was today permitted to return to Boston, subject to the call of the committee, Senator Wheeler said.

Yesterday's Radio Talk from Station WNAC was on desserts for the kiddies and the grown ups. If there is only time to make one dessert for the family it's lots better to let the grownups eat one of the simple sweetmeats, fruit junkets, custards or fruit salads that are suitable for the little folks, than it is to give the kiddies even "just a small helping" of a lemon meringue pie or chocolate eclairs. A delicious milk dessert is:

STRAWBERRY CUP

Made with a gelatine foundation. Soak two tablespoons gelatine in one-quarter cup milk five minutes. Add one-half cup scalding hot milk and stir until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved. Heat two and one-quarter cups milk until just luke warm and add it to the gela ine mixture, with a cup of sugar. Stir well and mould in custard cups. When cool and almost set stir in a tablespoon of strawberry jam into each cup. Serve with cream or a simple boiled custard sauce.

PEACH SNOWBALLS

These are another delight to the youngsters and they are wholesome and not much trouble to make. Soak one tablespoon of gelatine in one-quarter cup cold water for five minutes. Then add one-half cup boiling water and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Stir well and set in refrigerator to cool. When it begins to set, add a cup of fresh or canned peaches put through a sieve. As the mixture stiffens, beat it light with an egg beater and add the whites of two eggs beaten stiff Set in egg cups and when firm moulded sprinkle the balls thickly with shredded cocoanut.

RHUBARB COMPOTE

This is made by putting 2 cups of rhubarb cut into inch pieces and a cupful of seeded raisins in the top of the double boiler. Don't put in any water, but let it cook slowly till the rhubarb is tender. Then add ¾ cup of sugar and let it cook until sugar is dissolved. Pour over crisp brown toast, or split and toasted bran muffins. Stewed apricots or peaches can be used or hot apple sauce.

These are all simple things and easy to make, and would be really better for the grownups than the usual heavier desserts.

However Daddy has probably been getting spoiled so long with his favorite pies and fruit cake that you would find it pretty hard work to satisfy him with a fruit junket or even a rabbits' parade. So let's think of something new for his sweet tooth. There was a prize recipe for sponge cake lemon pie in yesterday's American that I know he'd like, and there's a banana pie that is truly delicious.

Mix 1-3 cup sugar, 2-3 tablespoonfuls of flour, a pinch of salt and 2 egg yolks all together. Pour this into a cup of milk boiled in the top of the double boiler, and cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly until it thickens and then just occasionally. Cool and add ¼ cup of thin cream, ¾ tablespoonfuls lemon juice, and 1 large banana, cut in ¼ inch slices. Chill thoroughly and turn into a pastry shell. When you make these shells, by the way, they are ever so much better if you bake them on the outside of your pie plate instead of the inside. Butter the outside of the pan, lay the pastry over it, trim the edges and prick it all over with a fork. Bake in a moderately hot oven, and you'll never know what it is to have a soggy shell.

Fresh strawberries, sugared and covered with whipped cream and served in shells, make a delicious pie and bananas are good this way, too.

I want to tell you about some drop cookies that my friend Mollie makes, and which simply melt in your mouth and with cheese and coffee are a delicious lunch with supper. They are splendid, too, for a bed time bite with a glass of milk or ginger ale.

MOLLIE'S COOKIES

One cup butter for drippings, 1½ cups sugar, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon soda, 1½ tablespoons hot water, 3½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 cup nut meats, ½ cup currants, ½ cup chopped raisins.

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and well beaten eggs. Add soda dissolved in hot water and ½ the flour mixed and sifted with salt and cinnamon. Sift remaining flour over the nutmeats and fruit and add to mixture. Drop by very small teaspoonful one inch apart in buttered pans or bake sheets. Bake in moderate oven. This makes about four dozen cookies

HERE'S a thought! Suppose the lads and lassies of the early eighteen hundreds were to awaken from their peaceful slumber? Suppose they were to stroll across a field and chance upon a race track—not of horses or college boys, but girls—what then? What would they say of the brevity of costume and the "audacity and impudence" of girls who "dare"? There'd be scowls of disapproval and all sorts of indignation. Ladies would feign a swoon and men would rise their eyebrows. Anything might happen. And yet the winner of the race—this girl who so shocks her proper predecessors—wins today the most precious prize in the world—the heart of a hero and champion athlete of his team!—POPINI.

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

—By Beatrice Fairfax—

The Disgruntled Suitor

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Two years ago I met a man three years my senior. At that time I was down and out and asked me to be a sort of big sister to him and help him make a bit of success in the world.

He had a wonderful disposition—and a wonderful trade—and so I thought I could within a time make a real person out of him.

His always told me how much he cared, and as soon as he would have some money we would be engaged and then later on married.

Now, of late his attitude has changed entirely toward me. He comes around, but as though he had to. He does not act the same as he walks and mopes. The other day I spoke to him about this, and he got huffed and went home.

Now he tells me that the feeling he had for me is gone, and that, maybe, later on it might come back. He does not want to see me as often as he did, but will call me up occasionally.

I am a miserable girl. All my friends are gone—and that makes loneliness for me, until something new comes up.

Do you think I ought to forget him entirely and try to take a new interest in things? MAE.

PERHAPS you have shown too much of the martyr spirit and have impressed the man so strongly with the "obligation" under which you have put 'um by your attitude. One can be helpful without becoming too solemn about it. Don't feel badly treated, for you have tried to help another human being.

Priscilla Price on Exterior Decoration tells about Her Little Garden

Alas, I am a country girl at heart! Never shall I learn to love the bricks and pavement, nor cease to yearn for all the green, growing acres of my childhood days.

But I have made my little spot of city blossom. Yes, indeed, from merely noon until 6 in Fall it is a gay, bright, flowering bit in the midst of stone and brick and garages.

I spaded the ground as deeply as I could, breaking up the earth so that it was quite mellow lumps and well pulverized. Then raked it smooth. It's really more important than fertilizing, though I did use a little sheep manure and some unslaked lime (our plasterer let me have some of the latter). The lime looked like snow on the ground. After a few days I forked it into the soil.

The garage was the ugliest sight that faced my windows. So I planted some golden glow and two of the less coarse varieties of sunflower close up to it, on either side the entrance. At each end, near the corner, I planted castor oil plants. These make a growth that is dense and almost tropical in effect. I started the bean vine in the house, in a shallow box tan old cigar box served.

I'd like to have hollyhocks, too, against this garage, but they do not seed readily and I proceed Summer, being biennials, so I decided not to wait for them.

Between the two back windows I planted hop vines. I could almost see them grow, so fast did they shoot up. Heavy cord, reached from window to window, was sufficient to give them support. They are thick and luxurious, or were, when I left, and the blossoms are lovely. My friends think possibly the neighbors might be glad to get the hops!

Below the windows I planted morning glories and moonflowers (Japanese variety). These moonflowers I soaked in lukewarm water overnight before planting. I strung cord in neat rows up to the window ledge, for them to grow on.

At the foot of the golden glow I planted larkspur. Unfortunately, this lovely flower does not grow well from seed, so I had to buy the few plants at the Florist's. At the same time, I bought a dozen salvia plants. Their scarlet blossoms are wonderful in the Autumn, when Summer's flowers are fading. Nasturtiums, too, I love, especially the orange-hued ones, dwarf variety. Purple morning glories and marigolds completed my garden bed and made it the dense effect I sought.

Thinning out with tweezers the little seedlings to 6 inches apart and pinching off the third leaf the first time it formed, gave me strong, sturdy plants.

I wish I had room for the blue cornflowers that one cannot have all the flowers one wants—for don't we want all there are? I do. But one more package of seeds I will plant, and that is candytuft. Just a ribbon of it around the edge, for I want to have a tiny square of green in the yard, open to the air and sun.

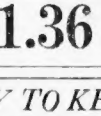
HOW TO KEEP WELL

By P. N. MAHONEY,
Boston Health Commissioner.

THE proper disinfection of one's hands after coming in contact with articles or persons that may be infected with dangerous disease germs is a matter of which the average person is supremely ignorant.



Dr. Mahoney.

It is poorly believed that by dipping the hands in some sort of an antiseptic solution is all that is required. That is not the case, and unless the disinfecting is done properly it is simply a waste of time and energy.

There are two standard disinfectants for use in sterilizing the hands. These are corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) and compound cresol solution, each of which is obtainable at any drug store.

The hands should first be thoroughly washed in warm water, using plenty of soap and a good brush.

If the bichloride of mercury solution is used for disinfecting the hands, dissolve one tablet in a quart of water. Remove all finger rings and then soak the hands in the solution for at least two minutes. A shorter time will not suffice. The hands should be rubbed together in the solution and an effort made to see that the solution enters every crack and crevice of the skin.

After soaking the hands, rinse them thoroughly in clear, cold water. The bichloride solution will tarnish all jewelry so care should be taken to remove all rings, wrist watches, etc.

If compound cresol solution is used as a disinfectant, put one teaspoonful of the standard solution in a pint of cool or cold water.

Following the use of either solution the hands should be thoroughly and generously rinsed, as this tends to prevent injury to the skin.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

How should a Baby's Airing be given?

The child should be dressed with bonnet and light coat, as if for the street, and placed in a carriage or stage, which should stand a few feet away from the street. All the windows are then thrown wide open, but the doors closed to prevent draughts.

My child age four years old, a girl, has a running ear for over a year with a very disagreeable odor as the result of measles. Mrs. C. H.

This may be due to infected tonsils or an ear abscess and certainly requires medical attention. Do not neglect it as it may become more serious with time.

I have stomach trouble but of late am bothered with dryness in the throat. When I awake my tongue is coated and I have to take a drink of water or cocoa which relieves. My appetite is good but my stomach has quite a lot of gas and at times quite nervous. Have had two attacks of pain in the top and side of my stomach but not water bag; reason is? Do you think I have gall stones? F. M. O.

From what you describe it is difficult to determine if you are or are not suffering from gallstones. I would advise an X-ray of your stomach—intestinal tract and it will undoubtedly determine the diagnosis.

There is a place on my body a little above the hip which feels as though a piece of raw flesh and gives me a burning feeling at times also, although there is no mark on the outside of my body. Mrs. H. M.

There is some disorder of the nerve that controls that part of your body. Electric treatment and hydro therapy may aid this. Above all get your nerves rested and it may disappear by itself.

I have red blotches on my ankle, some times swollen and sore. What is the cause of it? ANNA.

It sounds like a neurotic condition; consult a physician.

Mrs. H. M.—Impetigo is a disease characterized by pustules which appear on the face, neck and hands. The size of the pustules varies much and they often run together to form large superficial sores covered with thick, yellow crusts. The disease is contagious and may be spread by scratching as well as by using common towels, etc. Children having this disease should not be allowed to attend school until all the sores are healed and the skin smooth.

FADS OF FASHION

By MILDRED ASH

THE rainbow's end seems to have melted into the vari-colored Milan hats, which through blending all the rain bows hues have a decidedly batik appearance. All shapes, from the tiny, close-fitting cloche to the wide-brimmed garden hat, are shown. Ribbon fancies or shaded faille silk draperies are the trimmings featured.

Hindu Luck Necklaces are worn to propitiate the Gods of Chance and to ingratiate the Fates, as well as to give an exceedingly smart, colorful note to a dark satin or cloth frock. Composed of large, curiously wrought and oddly-colored beads—in an infinite variety of shapes and shades such a chain extends nearly to the waist. Some of the beads are ivory filigree, others represent weird little pagan gods carved stone and still others are as smooth and round as marble.

A Clinging Vine of roses, sketched in elaborate, all-over stitching, climbs up the entire side of the long, white glace kid evening gloves, designed for the most formal wear. One cannot doubt that their inspiration was truly Parisian.

Charming by Proxy, marabou and ostrich flues are so treated as to give the illusion of genuine birds of paradise when mounted into one of those wide, drooping evening fans that complete the smart evening costume of the Winter. These ultra-feminine screen fans are most effective when mounted upon black jet handles.

Jaunty "Tom Boy" Sets of severely tailored collar and cuffs of white or deep ecru pique are worn with boish four-in-hand ties of gaily-colored figured silk. The collars are youthfully round and flat and the medium depth cuffs have flat buttons.

Feminine Frills distinguished the newest long mousquetaire gloves of white glace kid. An elaborately perforated ruffle extends along the side seam, all the way up to the elbow.

An Interesting Braiding is the close-fitting toque of black Milan, tightly draped in tan suede, with large cut-outs through which shines the black patent leather facing.

A New Trick is performed by the versatile scarf that, of the same cloth as the Spring coat which it trims. Formerly merely a collar feature, the scarf, which hangs to the knee, now frequently forms the sleeves of the latest Spring wrap. Such a design is of extraordinary grace and distinction.

Peeping Inside of the coat or jacket of the tailored suit, one discovers that the scarf is just as popular for town wear as it is for sports. The opened wrap is variously revealing the check on plaid or printed scarf of homespun, cashmere or silk.

HAD TO LET HOUSEWORK GO

So Ill Husband had to do the Work. Completely Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

South Bend, Indiana.—"I was all run-down, tired out, and had pains in my back and bearing-down pains. I was so sore I could hardly drag myself around and was not able to do a bit of housework. My husband worked all day in the factory and then came home and helped me at night. The doctors said I had female weakness, and there was no help but to be operated upon, and my husband did not want me to have a great deal. My husband heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the factory and one night he stopped at the drug store and bought me a bottle of it. I had begun to think there was no help for me, but I took three bottles of it and now I feel like myself once more. The price for three bottles wasn't so much as the doctor had charged. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough."—Mrs. DORA BESURSE, 630 Sherman Ave., South Bend, Indiana.

Women troubled with female weakness should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

SLAVES TO FASHION
By Priscilla Price

Slave bracelets, slave-link handkerchiefs, hats, and now the slave chain on a hat.

A small close-fitting shape of white kid has a novel scalloped edge, 2 inches there which is a band of slave links made of black patent leather. Gunmetal links are stylish, too, especially if worn with a choker of black pearls.

Buttons are seen everywhere. Even across the crown of a cloche. A very smart polka dot gray felt had an inch blue moire ribbon around the bottom of the crown, and another across the brim left to right. Blue silk floss stitching and six buttonholes with blue pearl buttons, completed the ensemble. Very new.

When one goes to buy a hat, it is well to remember that it decids on any without seeing your full length in a mirror. A debutante sitting in front of a triplicate mirror, if she is a sports, will look ravishing in one of the new floppy picture hats. But let her stand up and survey herself in a long mirror, her pretty face is lost, and all she sees is a big hat, far too large for such a figure. She would look better in a small hat, one in proportion to her size. A woman generally looks best when she is sitting or strolling, for much depends on her standing when she is wearing a hat, she should stand up and get the effect of the whole hat from head to foot before she buys it.

Narrow lace veiling about six inches wide comes in all colors. Drape it around the crown and let a long streamer hang on the right side. It makes an inexpensive but dressy and becoming hat. Also freshens an old hat.

Leather is one of the latest notes. Suede, kid or crocodile is dyed all the bright colors, as well as white. Very often hats are faced with contrasting color. Good for sports and travel.

Whole hats are made of linen braid. One I saw that is very new was made in cocoa color and was trimmed with a rosette of orange pleated ribbon. An orange and brown chiffon scarf was worn with this.

For the after-Easter wedding beautiful hats for bridesmaids are made of the finest horsehair. In soft pastel colors with flowers or baskets of flowers hand painted on their wide crowning brims.

Another effective hat fashioned for a bridesmaid is of natural colored leghorn with a wide scarf of apple green tulle wound about the crown and long streamers hanging on one side. The bridesmaids wear pale yellow taffeta with green sashes to match.

NEW FURNITURE STORE OPENS IN FITCHBURG

Kane Organization Adds to Its Chain Another Large Establishment

New England's newest complete home furnishing store—a link in the chain of Kane furniture stores—opened its doors today, at No. 845 Main street, Fitchburg.

Occupying an entire new four-story building with 50,000 square feet of floor space, the new Kane store is one of the largest furniture stores in New England outside of Boston. Its size and architectural beauty make it one of the most imposing structures in Fitchburg.

The Kane furniture organization, which, for a number of years, operated stores in Providence and Woonsocket, opened its Boston store at No. 140 Washington street a little over a year ago. Selling furniture on easy credit terms, it has been able, because of its chain-store buying and selling methods, to build up in little more than a year, one of the large retail furniture businesses of Greater Boston.

Harry Kane, president of the organization and active head of the Boston store, is one of the best known men in the furniture trade in the East.

The Fitchburg store will be under the active direction of John W. Kane, who has been connected with the organization for many years.

Mr. Hearst Says Insurance Plan for Bonus Is the Best

April 5, 1924.

EDITOR OF BOSTON AMERICAN:

I DO not want our papers to oppose the insurance plan for the bonus.

On the contrary, I want them to support it.

It seems to me to be not only the best plan obtainable, but actually the BEST PLAN.

It is the one measure which, because of its almost universal support in Congress, can be passed over the President's veto, if the President finally determines to veto any and every kind of compensation to the veterans.

It is, in addition, probably the best system that has been offered, because it makes PERMANENT PROVISION for the veteran and his family.

It puts it largely out of his power to dissipate his income from this source, and makes this government gift a permanent guaranty towards his support.

It is even possible that as sound a measure, ethically and economically, as this insurance plan for the soldiers' bonus might appeal to President Coolidge and secure his signature, thus avoiding altogether any possibility of defeat of compensation and consideration for the veterans.

All of these things make it desirable for our papers, in the interest of the public and in the interest of the veterans, to support this insurance plan vigorously. Please do so.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Military Training Camp Benefits Told by Gen. Brewster

Editor Boston American:

You have so wholeheartedly supported the Civilian Military Training Camps that I want to express to you my deep appreciation of it.

Your endorsement of these camps is the reflection of the approval given to them by those who are best qualified to judge of their merit, namely, the parents of the boys who have attended them the past three years.

These camps stand for the principles of citizenship, patriotism and Americanism, particularly all that the latter word at its best stands for. In spite of the publicity gained through the past camps and regardless of all our efforts, I feel that the parents of boys who most need this instruction are in many cases not being reached. If they can but be made to realize all that these camps offer to their sons the present plans will be all too inadequate to train the thousands who will annually apply for enrollment.

The oath which the students take upon final acceptance in the camps is as follows:

I do solemnly swear that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America; and while at this camp, I will obey those in authority and observe all the rules and regulations of the camp to the best of my ability. So help me God.

The atmosphere which surrounds the young men while taking this oath adds greatly to its impressiveness. The responses to it in past years has been most gratifying. The regulations which govern the camps are most wholesome and beneficial. The student is bound to obey the regulations because of his oath. It has been our experience in these camps that young Americans can be trusted to live up to their obligations.

Throughout the United States the Boy Scout movement is laying the foundation for morality and patriotism. Upon attaining the age which automatically removes the young man from the Scouts, he becomes eligible for enrollment in the Citizens' Military Training Camp. For the four most important years of his life then, prior to his becoming of age, the Citizens' Military Training Camp can take him and hold him true to his principles and to the precepts which the camps teach. The result is that the young men, upon becoming of age, can hardly help being honorable, upright Americans, of whom all who have had a hand in moulding their characters may well be proud.

As you doubtless know, the camps are to be held in New England this year at Camp Devens, Mass., and Fort Adams, R. I. The enrollment of the quota is well under way. If the parents of eligible boys are to be informed of the opportunities for their sons, it is essential that every publication in the land shall not only endorse these camps at the time of the enrollment campaign, but shall continue without cessation to keep before the public the great benefits to be derived from them. Yours sincerely,

A. W. BREWSTER, Commanding.

Gas From Straw

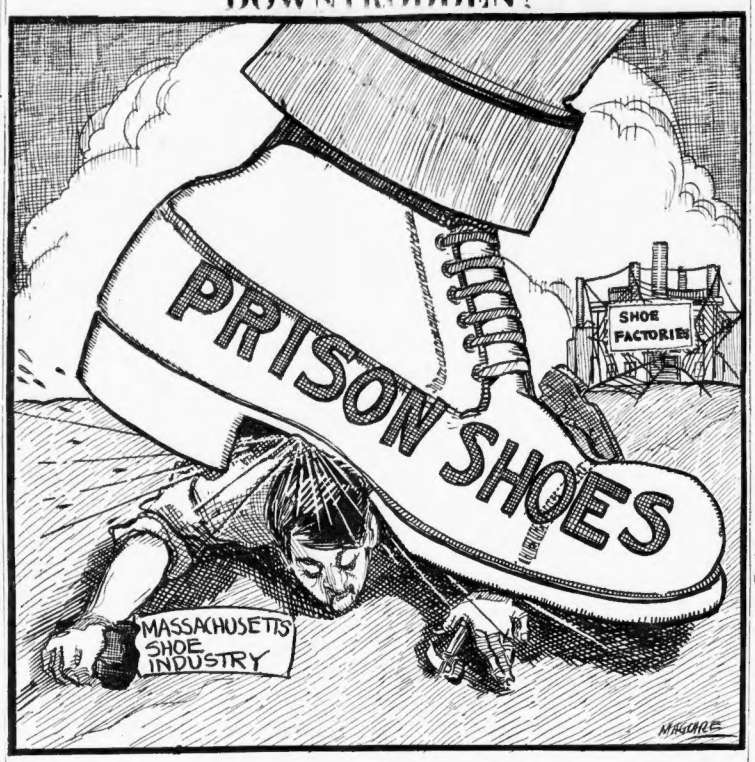
Alcohol, Also

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

The United States Department of Agriculture has made experiments showing that farmers can use straw—now wasted on many farms—to produce enough gas to run all the machinery and do the cooking on the farm.

Henry Ford long ago made experiments showing that waste vegetable matter on farms can be used to produce alcohol and that, in turn, would run automobile and other engines. The difficulty would be to regulate the manufacture in these prohibition days. It might be as hard for the hired man to pour that alcohol into the tractor as it would be for the camel to "do his stuff" in connection with the needle's eye.

DOWNTRODDEN!

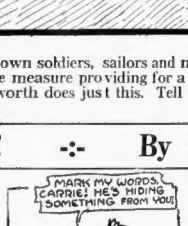


Prison-made shoes on the feet of our own soldiers, sailors and marines trampling the industry of Massachusetts—inspiring spectacle! The measure providing for a giant shoe manufacturing plant in the Federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth does just this. Tell our Congressmen, tell our President what you think of it.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

REMEMBER the old fable of the fox who lost his tail, Pal?

"A Fox once fell into a trap, and after a struggle managed to get free, but with the loss of his brush. He was then so much ashamed of his appearance that he thought life was not worth living unless he could persuade the other Foxes to part with their tails also and thus divert attention from his own loss. So he called a meeting of all the Foxes, and advised them to cut off their tails. 'They're ugly things, anyhow,' he said, 'and, besides, they're heavy, and it's tiresome to be always carrying them about with you.' But one of the other Foxes said, 'My friend, if you hadn't lost your own tail, you wouldn't be so keen on getting us to cut off ours.'"



Well, speaking of disappointed foxes makes me think of Carrie Spoffard. You know her? Maybe they call her another name on your block, but whatever the name the breed's the same. Tall, narrow, nervous, naggy. All choked up with brine every time she thinks of her pitiful fate. Most of us don't see why her fate is pitiful. Dick Spoffard, her husband, is a good-natured old turnip if you don't rile him. The neighbors like Dick. But, according to Carrie, the original maneating sea-serpent had nothing on Dick when it comes to cussedness.

Of course, there's nothing unusual in this. Most wives discover crimes in their husbands that the police have never dreamed of. But, generally speaking, they do the discovering at home and confine their riots to the domestic corral. Not so with Carrie. Marriage having proved disastrous for one of the sweetest women God ever made—namely herself—it must, therefore, prove disastrous for all the lesser ladies. It's the old story of the fox who lost his tail. She's never going to rest content until all the other women feel toward men and marriage as she feels. So out she goes, singing her hymn of hate, spreading gloom like an epidemic.

If John Weatherbee stays out late without an explanation, Carrie is right there inciting Jane Weatherbee to hope for the worst. When young Don Wright began to read his paper at the breakfast table, two weeks after the honeymoon, Carrie turned little Mrs. Don's tears into pure cyanide with her insinuations. As for the brides—Mrs. Dick visits every bride within a radius of twenty miles and drapes crepe over every rosy dream.

Strangely enough, Carrie Spoffard is regarded as a model of respectability. Because she goes to church each Sunday, cleans house twice a year, does not use rouge or commit murder, arson or theft, she steps right along with the Lord's anointed. But in truth the Carries of the nation are fouler criminals than any thief. The thief steals a purse or a jewel and you're little the worse for the experience. But Carrie steals your peace of mind and poisons your fountain of joy. There is no meaner sneak or poorer sport than the married woman who looks with bilious eye on all marriage simply because her own has gone wrong. Moreover, it is the height of egotism for such a woman to imagine that, because she has failed in an undertaking, all other women will fail. Every time I meet up with one of these purveyors of gloom, I sincerely regret the passing of the ducking stool.

On the Ragged Edge

Editor Helping Hand:

Please do not deem me a pest, but really I am on the ragged edge of despair. My husband has worked but 5½ days since before Christmas. Much as I hate to tell you, I will have to admit he is a man who drinks. Why, oh why do little children have to suffer for such a curse. My only support has been my son, who gives me six dollars a week, never fails, and my oldest girl, sixteen years, who works after school and gets two dollars a week. So eight dollars a week is what I have been trying to exist on. If you only knew how I feel, having to write this, I am sure you would appreciate my position. My fourteen-year-old boy hasn't a shoe on his foot (he wears size 5), and he has but one blouse and that is all patched. The little girls, nine and eleven, have a few dresses, but if anyone has anything, no matter what, to fit them, I will be thankful. "Little Boy Blue," four years, has one little suit I made from an old shirt, and his little shirts are all darned so they are now threadbare. He has never had a coat yet, only old sweaters, one on top of the other. If you should hear of anything for the sixteen-year-old girl I'd be thankful. As I never go anywhere except to the clothesline, I don't need anything. MRS. E. W.

Could Be Made Over

Editor Helping Hand:

I have several things, size 36, and many things that could be made over for children. So will you please send me the address of some needy one.

MRS. R. S. McC.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of E. C., who is trying to help a needy family she is interested in.

Asks Clothes for Children

Editor Helping Hand:

I am alone with three little children, which the city is keeping, my husband having left me a year ago. I find it very hard, as I don't get much from the city. I would be very thankful if I could only get some clothes for myself and the children. I have a girl eight years old, a boy five and a baby boy nine months old. I take size 38 or 40. Hoping you will please help my little children if you can't help me.

MRS. E. A. K.

They Come Fast

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish if any of the readers had a carriage large enough for two babies that I might have it, as I have only a little go-cart and I can't take the two of them out together. One baby is sixteen months old and the other is three weeks. I also have one who will be three years old next September, so you see they come pretty fast. With expenses such as I have had, I can't buy a carriage. Also if anyone had any clothes for my little girl sixteen months old I will be very thankful. I am only twenty-two myself.

MRS. F. H. D.

Bird Cage Offer

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a bird cage if some one will call for it. For Mrs. E. A. B. or anyone. MRS. C.

Mrs. E. A. B. has been supplied with a cage. Is there anyone else who would like to take advantage of this generous offer?

Joe's Thanks

Editor Helping Hand:

How are you? I got the books the people sent to me. I thank you for giving my address to the people. From JOE.

We're fine, Joe. We can't publish all the "thank-you letters" we get, but we felt we wanted to share this with the "people."

DR. FRANK CRANE ON WAY TO ACHIEVE SUCCESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE way to make the most money and achieve the greatest success in what you are doing is very simple.

It is to do it better than anyone else can do it.

A recent treatise on how to choose and prepare for one's life work says that there are tens of thousands of men writing business letters in the United States every day. Some of them get three or four cents a letter, others may average as high as fifteen or twenty cents, but there is a man in New York who gets as much as five hundred dollars for one letter.

The answer is easy.

He writes a better letter than anybody else.

There are thousands of machinists who can do pretty well in polishing metal surfaces; but there is one man who can smooth the faces of two steel cubes so perfectly that when they are placed together, absolutely dry, they will stick. Theoretically, if the surfaces were absolutely smooth, they would, when placed together, become one bar of steel. The ordinary machinist who does tolerably well gets from two-fifty to ten dollars a day. This man who can do it best sells his little pieces of steel for more than six hundred dollars a set.

There are millions of gardeners who grow potatoes and get some money out of them. But Eugene Grubb applied himself to the business until he can raise a crop of a thousand bushels of good potatoes from one acre of ground.

If all you want to do is to do as well as the average man you will be doomed to mediocrity as long as you live.

Whatever you do, try to do it better than anybody else can do it, and nothing can prevent you from coming to the top.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON ALADDIN'S LAMP

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

I HAVE several letters from readers who seem to have been impressed by the importance for everybody of a fair knowledge of elementary mathematics, a little beyond addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, the handling of fractions, and the calculation of interest. Some ask for the names of books that will help them to acquire this desirable knowledge, whose possession becomes every year more important for all who try to keep in the sunlight of this brightening world.

I am very glad to mention a few books which seem to me suitable; but, their readers should never forget that knowledge is not a cheap thing to be acquired without effort. Nobody can hand it over to you, "chewed and digested." The mastication and absorption depend upon your own efforts and powers.

Fortunately, nothing develops the capacity of the mind more effectually than the concentration of attention required in mathematical study, and only when a book makes you work does it become your teacher.

One of the simplest guides at the threshold of the vast temple of mathematics is "Mathematics for the Practical Man," by George Howe. It deals merely with fundamentals in algebra, geometry, trigonometry, logarithms, and elementary calculus. It is an ABC book, and only shows the way to larger and more complete works.

A much more extensive book, really quite a vade mecum of fundamental mathematical ideas and methods, is "Practical Mathematics for Technical students," by Bates and Charlesworth.

One thing which I would put special stress upon is plenty of exercise in algebra. Algebra's fundamental principles, as Mr. Howe says, should be "literally soaked into one's mind and method of thought." Algebra lies at the basis of all "higher mathematics," and is not a difficult science to acquire if one goes at it open-minded and with persistence. Persistence is the photographic telescope of the mind, by which, after the manner of the great observatories, the image of an almost invisible nebulous object is kept focussed for hours on the sensitive plate of conscious intelligence until at last its image stands out clear, fixed and sharply defined, in wonderful detail.

Algebra is as fascinating as music, when once you get its rhythm.

A stimulating little book is "An Introduction to Mathematics," by A. N. Whitehead. This shows something of the philosophy of the subject. Some of it may puzzle you a little, but keep at it.

T. O'Conor Sloane's "Rapid Arithmetic" is full of odd and amusing, as well as of very helpful things concerning fundamental mathematical principles and facts, not generally brought out clearly in text-books.

A mathematical work, not difficult to read, and of great value, is "The Theory of Measurements," by Lucius Tuttle. While intended to accompany laboratory work by students in physics, it can profitably be studied, without a teacher and without the convenience of a laboratory, by anyone who has first acquired some familiarity with elementary mathematics.

There may be elementary books as good as, or better, than those that I have mentioned, but which I have not seen. Besides, I have not mentioned all that I know. What exactly suits one mind may be relatively a misfit for another. The main thing is to remember that nothing is to be had for nothing. You can't learn even to play golf, or base ball, or tennis, or bridge, without a good deal of attention and practice: how, then, could you expect to master the principles of mathematics, on which the whole wonderful superstructure of modern science stands, without putting forth some personal effort? You must learn how to rub into Aladdin's Lamp, and if you do you will always be glad. I am not advising you to become a mathematician, but only to learn enough mathematics to keep abreast of the age.

HAVE HORSE SENSE AND BE A PLANNER AND THINKER

Cultivate the habit of imagining things, of having vision, but not in the way a child would do it.

It shows a weak brain for instance, to imagine that you are sometime going to get a sum of money in some mysterious way; how you do not know, but it will come, you think.

You may imagine you can succeed without any particular effort on your part, but that is childish, imbecilic.

If through your imagination you can see the successive practical steps to further your ambition and achieve through the mid-picture which leads you to act step by step as your "vision" prompts, then your imagination is worth while.

To make a living these days require hard study and planning.

Too many men are studying and thinking into the future for an unthinking man to suppose that he can make more than a comparatively small income.

The planners and the thinkers are filling the field in every line.

They are using horse sense in their plans.

They are men and women of vision but with practical heads, not only to think out a way, but to work out the plan in mind.
